Stay there well, the year is finally over. I can't believe we will finally be seniors next year. Then we are out but we and you will always and forever be friends. I'm ~~so~~ glad that we started hanging around your great. We have been through a lot and you. Let's see, going out the window - "O'ed" our little "Secret" "Bondy Vets" too bad I got caught, but knowing us we will find another way. And there are times with you and your "attracting car." "Betar" my nick name for you. Our times lost down at the "cove." It was funny and worth it. Chicken at Andrews. He's a sweetie we should kick it there this summer. And last but not least the mighty "rec" our home sweet home. Maybe Diana need to move into our "cars" soon. We still have to go there in the summer to see "our" cuties - Curtis, Thomas - Otis - Adrian - ect. Watch them play Baseball. And let's not forget about our trip cont.

Renee~

The year is almost over, in fact it actually is now that I think about it. I'm glad I got to know you this year. Hopefully next year we can become even better friends. It's too bad we didn't have time to become even better friends. Hopefully next year will be different and we can even become better friends. Take care of yourself and have a great summer.

3. JV Cheerleaders, Kristen Demko and Holly Clifton challenge Cross Country runners, Richard Morales, Brock Treptow, Kerry Smith and Tammy Lyons to a race at the fall sports pep rally.

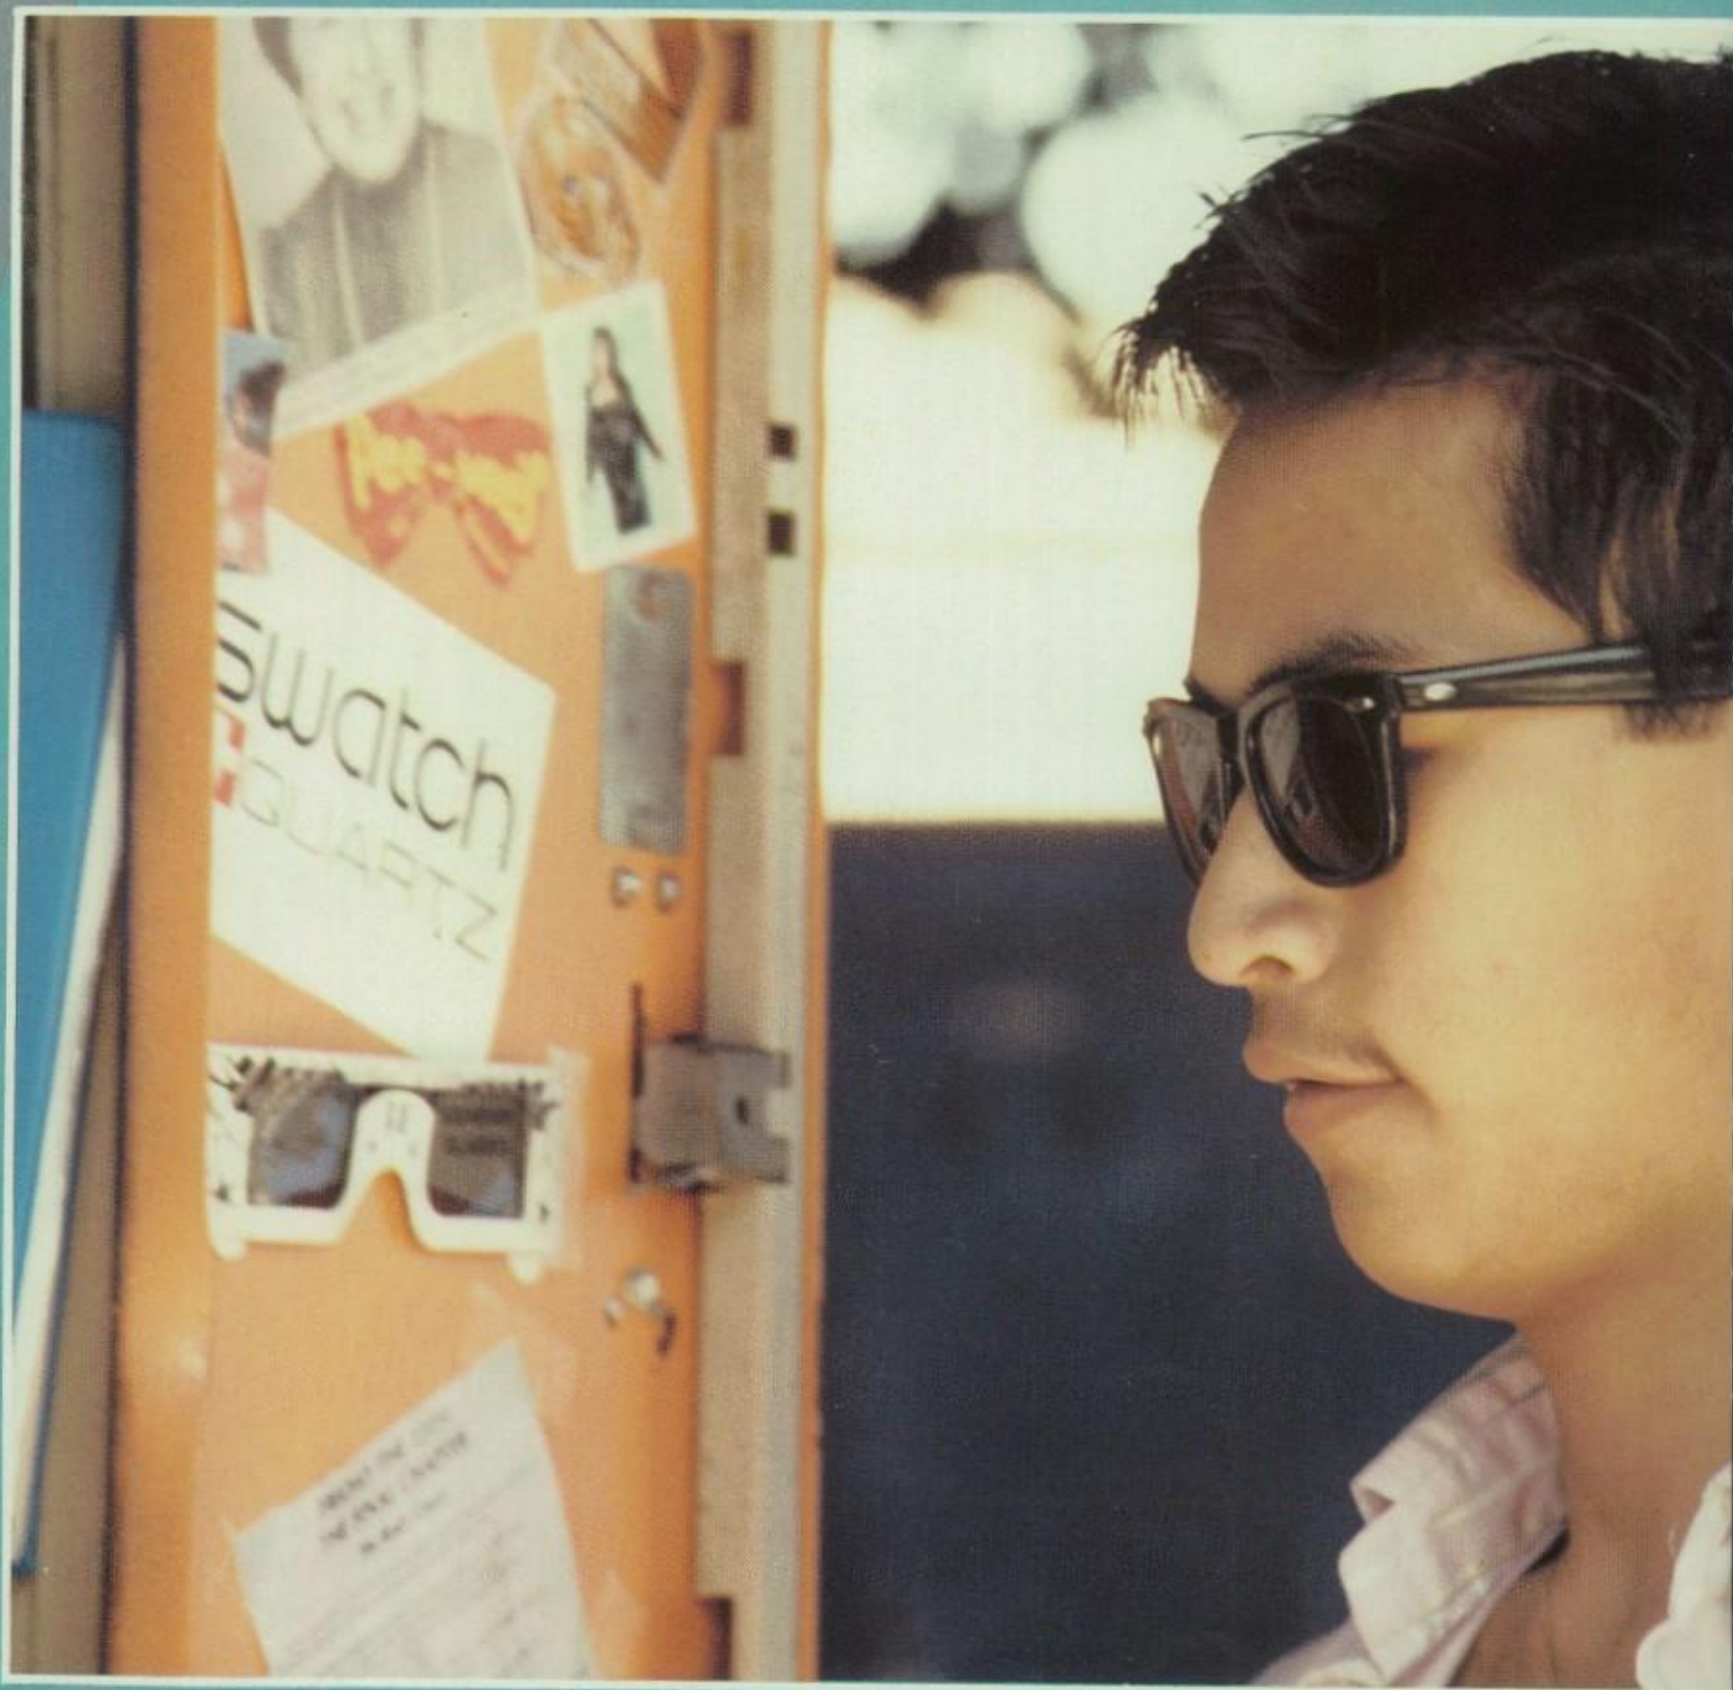

Spirit was the energy that made MMHS the Hot Spot. Anywhere on campus, it was obvious to all that spirit was the main attraction. You could see it, as when colorful costumes replaced ordinary fashions to aspire to Spirit Week dress codes. You could hear it, as loud shouts and cheers from the Marauder stands, both home and away, helped boost the Marauder teams to victory. Most of all, you could feel it. Whether watching or participating in the many on-campus or extra-curricular activities, the spirit was there, identifying the school to onlookers in awe of the togetherness and energy of its students, faculty, and supporters.

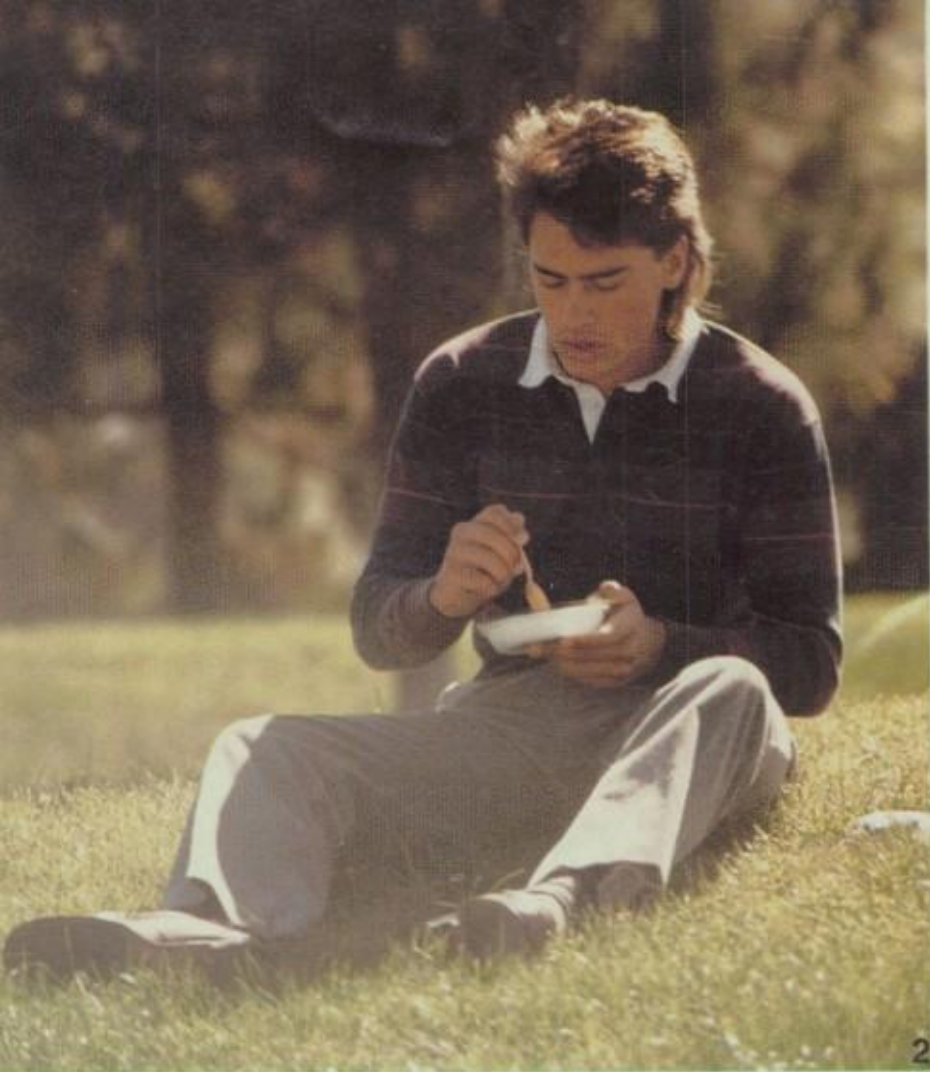

It took time and effort to grow the spirit now embedded in all of us. Whether shy, unadventurous, or uninterested, those who at first shunned the feeling grew to love it. They in turn helped to build it up even higher, spreading it farther to catch on to students and faculty alike.

Spirit helped us through the hard work and hard times by giving us something for which to work. Academically and athletically, spirit boosted us to do our best. In the bleachers, on the field, onstage, in the audience, leading a group or joining one, no matter where, what or who you were, the sizzling spirit was always there, and always will be.

As far as real estate jargon went, MMHS was at the tip of the golden triangle, in other words-prime land. New developments sprang up through Mira Mesa and Scripps Ranch attracting new talent to add to academic and athletic programs, while other areas fought their way in for a piece of the action in the ROP courses.

Things were cooking in the popularly demanded parking lots, locker bays, bleachers and hallways. And, outside the home of the blue and gold, Southern California paradise beckoned. La Jolla's famed jewel of a coast called to the beachy crowd and jet setting Marauders left our perfect climate for ski slopes and desert sands at seasonal demand. Horton Plaza, Seaport Village, Old Town and coastal nightlife at the nearby beaches added sparkle to existence in paradise.

All seats were taken because of the fiery hot appeal of dances, blue and gold victories, the never ceasing academic flame, and the sizzle of "Where it Was At". Location was the key, and it went fast within the Hot Spot!

Mira Mesa High, a hot newcomer to the school scene, burned up the competition in its 10th anniversary year as it broke registration records, thrashed rivals in athletic events, and began a streak of excellence by acing the CAP proficiencies administered in the spring of '85.

With a fiery trail of success behind them, Marauders were not going to put a halt to their happenings. Instead, they decided to bask in the golden potential ahead of them. With a corner on talent, and lots of it to go around,

Mira Mesa enjoyed high and well deserved athletic rankings. AP classes offered college graduates a head start on college competition. A wide range of clubs and organizations gave everyone a chance to get involved and join in the success story.

Potential was actively affected by growth within and outside the community. Hundreds rushed to new housing in the sizzling suburbia of Mira Mesa and Scripps Ranch for a piece of the action. Ten years down, and burning up the state with loaded potential- Hot!

Student life made the Hot Spot a favorite place to be. No matter what the activity or event, it almost always revolved around our community. Lunchtime activities brought out the big crowds as enthusiastic participants competed for sought-after spirit points. Whether a pre-game cheer or a tricycle relay race, support for the teams and the battle between the classes was well represented. After school, clubs and organizations gathered to plan for future activities and fundraisers. Night sports under the stadium lights were big favorites, with blue and gold clad Marauders, playing and cheering to win. When the game was over the heat got hotter in the gym, where dances let everyone show their own stuff! Off campus, there were plenty of other activities that kept the pace going. Fast food and fast cars gathered groups of friends together to cool down at a favorite spot; the beach, the malls, the movies, vacant office buildings, foreign countries; wherever their wills and their wheels could take them. Some engaged in group gossip discussions, others set off in search of fast-paced excitement. Of most importance, whether it was a party or a pep rally, the Mira Mesa Marauders were there, and in full force.

GREEK WEEK

For a week, college life erupted onto the campus of Mira Mesa High. Fraternities and sororities sprouted from the spirit of the students, making Greek Week a total success. Festivities were ignited as College Sweatshirt Day and Twins Day, blazed on to Toga and Pee-Wee Herman Days and ended with the blast of Blue and Gold Day. Lunchtime activities included such frolicking as Big Wheel races, a ski race and a grape eating contest. In addition to these events, all week long, spirit links were being sold by all classes, while cheerleaders offered spirit ribbons for the upcoming game. Greek Week ended with a bang; a pep rally was held to heat up the students' spirits for the Homecoming Game against Point Loma, and spirit links were unraveled giving seniors a narrow victory over the juniors. Motivated students blazed a trail for the Homecoming Weekend and made Greek Week one to remember!

1. Yuki Hackler tags along with her twin, Lisa Escobedo.

2. Stacey Lambeth, Brian Bugsch, Robin Maylone, and Dana Nicolaysen are just a few of the many Pee Wee Herman fans.

3. Zain McKinney and Cynthia Gonzales say their oath to get into the Delta Quad.

4. Greg Bryant and Scott Schooling concentrate on running to the finish line with flippers on their feet and water balloons on their trays.

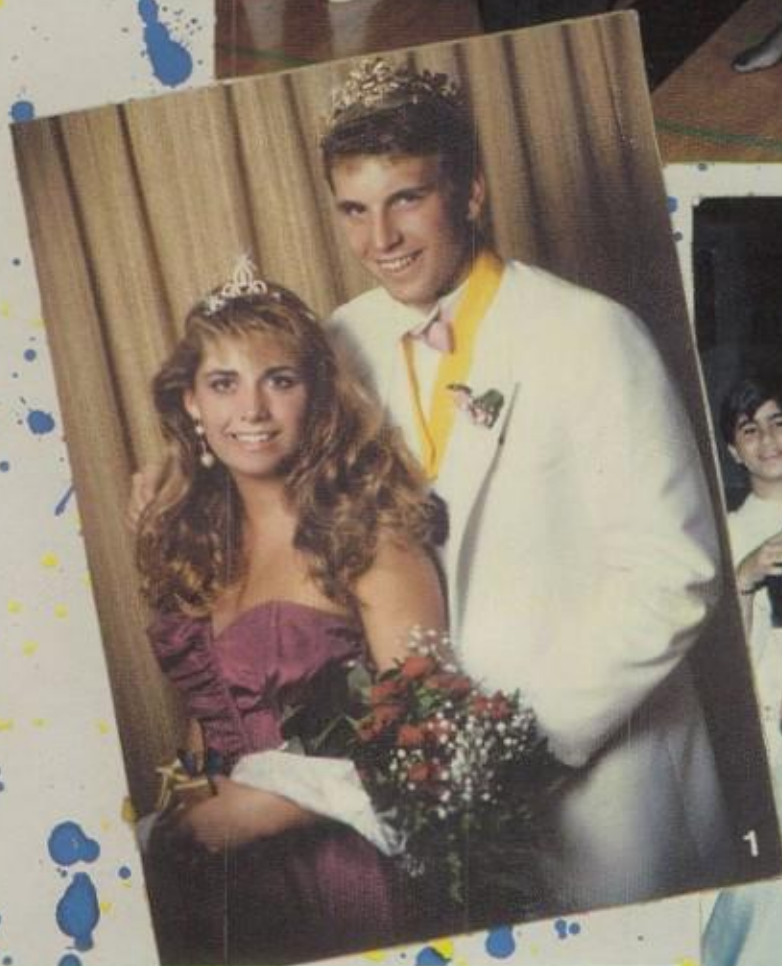

5. Joel Carambas and Tim Kalke fight for the finish during lunch-time activities.

Blue Moon: Homecoming

Ravaging Mira Mesa crowds at the Homecoming game was an epidemic known as 'spirit'. It took hold of excited fans and spurred them to cheer the players on to a victory of 26 to 16 for varsity and 21 to 13 for junior varsity, both triumphs over Point Loma. Key players were Kenny Jones, John Dykeman, DeWayne Odom, and Eddie Outlaw.

Postponed until Saturday for the first time, the Homecoming dance was an immense success. All co-sponsors for the dance, the senior class, the National Honor Society, and the ASB fitted the gym into a Grecian creation that coincided perfectly with Greek Week. Over a thousand people marveled at the entry columns, had their pictures taken, listened to music supplied by Music-Go-Around, and danced the night away. Festivities climaxed with the unveiling of the 1985-86 Homecoming King, Stacey Lambeth, and Queen, Shannon Rozsa. Their court included Trish Ordonez and Jim Lee, Ricky Hanson and Angela Sangalang, and Mariam Pandes and Perry Barcelon.

1. Stacey Lambeth and Shannon Rozsa are proud of their titles of Homecoming King and Queen.

2. Dmitry Tsimberg and Zaid Perez boogie down to the music.

3. Mike Aklufi, Jeffery Mascolino, Sarah Martin, Lori Torrence, Jose Tacloban, and Rachel Johnston try out a new dance step.

6. Jagade Snyder and Robbie Paine, offensive linesmen, hold the Pointers.

7. During halftime Mr. Vlassis chauffeurs Mariam Pandes and Perry Barcelon around the field.

CHILLS AND THRILLS

1. Two mad artists, Terry Sanabia and Jamie Silva create a perfect "10" Halloween style upon Daniel Mandagie.

2. "Domino's Pizza delivers Free!" cried out Katia Shokrai, having fun on Halloween with Zahra Arab and Heather Howze.

ghosts and goblins invaded the campus as Halloween arrived. The kid-at-heart came out in all, as colorful costumes replaced ordinary fashions. Students and staff alike wore weird creations ranging from outrageously funny to darkly mysterious. The lunchtime activity was a wild race resulting in the construction of goofy goblin, with spirit points as prizes. In preparation for the traditional holiday, the Klassic Kid-Varsity Club Halloween Run offered the chance to run in costume and feast on pancakes, all for a good cause. Frightfully exciting prizes were offered, along with post-race entertainment and refreshments. Weekend parties brought out the spirit as costume-clad fun seekers danced through the dark nights. Halloween night brought out howls of delight along with a few terrified shrieks. Those passing for the under-twelve bracket squeezed into old outfits and made rounds of the neighborhood in search of candy. Many took terror-tours through traditional haunted houses such as The Dark Castle, The Haunted Museum, and Scream-in-the-Dark, in which the Drama Club participated. Along with the frights were the inevitable pranks, but all in good Halloween fun. Even so, MMHS didn't really need a holiday celebrating the unusual. With such a diversity of ideas and styles, every day was Halloween.

3. Earning some spirit points for the seniors, Teddy Dequzman is turned into a Goblin during lunch.

4. Lisa Clark displays a face that only a mother could love.

5. Jean Carini and Kate Pale are two escapees from the local pumpkin patch.

WATCH OUT

Weekends

The weekend was a time to cut loose and live it up. No matter which way you went, North, South, East or West, and all stops in between, the surrounding areas of Mira Mesa were boiling over with active students. These were the ones who knew how to take advantage of all that California had to offer.

To the North you could find a few students burning up the moguls. With mountains in close range, there was a choice of prime ski areas. If you were seeking a tan, you could have easily joined the "locals" at any of the numerous beaches to the West. Escondido to the East offered a place to dance the night away. If there was foreign adventure on your mind, Tijuana was just a few minutes to the South. Once there you could take advantage of donkey rides, lobster feasts, and bargaining power.

Covering the points in between, you could find many students working during their weekends while other students stayed closer to home and filled their weekends with shopping. No matter which direction, all areas were covered by Mira Mesa students making the most of their Southern California weekends.

PLAY LET THE MUSIC PLAY IN THE Spotlight

So you wanna be a rock star? There were plenty of Marauders who felt the same way and they came as close as they could come to being one by performing in air bands! Performances took place in the lunch court during both lunches, and competition was intense. High-powered performers lip synced to R & B bands such as New Edition and Charlie Singleton, new wave groups like General Public, Oingo Boingo, and the B52's, while others went for good ol' rock'n'roll with Heart. The teachers even got into the act by performing as The Beach Boys, a sextet which was comprised of faculty members Noel Hall, Don Lee, Dennis Morgan, Ted Parent, Dale Thomas, and Dan Regas.

Winners were selected by out-of-school judges and headed towards state competitions. All Band members got serious about the competition with true-to-life costuming, routines, and faultless synchronization, that made the performances intriguingly realistic.

5. Eileen Arning and Florida Tiqui are two members of the group General Public who are performing for the wild crowd.

PEP!

Chain Reaction Spirit

Pep rallies were the heart of spirit at the Hot Spot. They pumped excitement into the souls of spirited Marauders and sent 'em away charged up. Pep rallies took days of preparation by the Drill Team, Cheerleaders, and the Band. Members practiced hours upon hours, showing their spirit and devotion to Mira Mesa High. After all the work, the fun eventually came! The pep rallies included cheers, music from the band, and performances from the drill team. All encouraged the students to get involved and to come to games to root their team to victory! In return Marauders showed their spirit by attending the games and cheering our school on to triumph after triumph!

Drama Season

Drama club and Drama class members prepared and produced the three plays of last year. Don Regas, a new advisor for the Drama department, chose Arsenic and Old Lace, a comedy-farce, as the first play of the season. This play hit MMHS in December. Approximately seventy-five students banded together to create the finished production, whether they were actors/actresses or part of the stage design. These dedicated students would stay after school for or five days a week for more than five weeks to rehearse, rehearse, and rehearse again. They didn't even have time to catch the afternoon soaps because of two to three hour rehearsals. The second play to hit Mira Mesa was Marley's Aunt, which was a comedy-farce and was performed in March. The season was finished off on a different note with The Boyfriend, a dancing musical.

1. Ted Caldwell, Stacey Zions and Laura Hurt act out a spine-tingling scene from Arsenic and Old Lace.
2. Mr. Regas helps Cheri Anderson, Stacey Zions, Tammy Lyons and Brad Aldredge with their problems applying to the play.
3. Curt Clark and Linda Keely act out a romantic scene.
4. Rebecca Smith, Brad Aldredge, Robyn Conroy and Kristi VanDewark put on make-up to prepare for the play.
5. Curt Clark has a look of shock as Ted Caldwell and Dean Maul begin to tie him to the chair.

RAKING IN THE BUCKS

Getting dough was always an expected problem, and the ways to get the needed cash were as original as ever. Candy sales were of course the hottest property of all, but students sold plenty of other goods and services, too! For the school, magazines, tapes, and records were sold, while individual classes sold T-shirts, sweats, holiday grams, and folders. Washing cars and wrapping gifts were popular money makers, and hot dog stands, balloon sales, and flower sales helped to rake in the bucks too. Audio bulletins and flashy posters advertised merchandise such as jewelry, crystal pieces, candles, and calendars. Numerous clubs became vendors of restaurant coupon books, chocolates, and ice cold Coke. And, once again, Mr. Vlassis still had his mind set on powdered water!

Everything great has an equally fantastic and influential source, and the Hot Spot's source for spirit and excellence originally came from the faculty. The staffs' spirit soared through as all members participated in Blue and Gold days and team activities. Many proved further dedication by advising a club, sport or class. The faculty worked hard to keep the school at the top of the district. Ranging in activities from assigning homework to advising for the future, the excellent teaching staff kept the campus educational levels high and mighty. Counselors were always busy tackling endless schedule changes and personal student problems. Administrative officials kept everyone in line, making sure that all departments were performing to maximum proficiency. The security team let the spirit soar, while keeping a lid on excessive rowdiness and un-student like conduct. Custodians and gardeners put in many hours to keep the halls clean and grass green, which enlightened the atmosphere and maintained the beauty of the campus.

Center Attraction

Mr. Jim Vlassis, or more affectionately known as Mr. V., headed up the administration. With the help of Vice Principals Barbara Wells, Gus Bolden, and Otis Funches, Mr. V. kept things going efficiently. With MHS being the biggest school in the district, that was a difficult task. Even before the school year started, Mr. V. was busy painting the 200 and 400 buildings and giving the campus a general makeover. Mr. V. communicated with students through monthly segments on the Update and his infamous jokes. The Vice Principals quickly handled the few students that got into trouble. One method used was the new "Saturday School".

Advice From The Best

With last year's standing total equaling over 3600 students, this year the counselors were faced with a major workload. Even though the work was divided among eight counselors, headed by Cindy Snidecor, there were the tasks of credit checks, parent conferences and distribution of college information. On top of that the counselors had to deal with overloaded classes and a great number of schedule changes throughout the year.

Other more difficult problems were solved through the special education department. These services were provided for students with a learning handicap, communication handicap, visual problems, for the deaf and hard of hearing, and students with speech and language problems. Mrs. Hernandez, head of the department, helped these students be all that they could be through this specialized individual tutoring.

Masters of Speech

It was up to the English department, headed by Mrs. Tina Graham-Caso, to keep Mira Mesa at the top of the district in literacy competency. Vocabulary words, compositions and home reading were not unusual assignments. There was also the annual district assessment tests and the pressing excitement of the senior CAP tests. Also, the advanced Senior English class held their annual Elizabethian Banquet. But, perhaps the most well known homework of the English department and English classes was the dreaded term paper. These assignments plus the excellent teaching skills of Mira Mesa's teachers helped over 3600 students learn English skills that were necessary for survival outside of the classroom as well as inside.

Addition and subtraction may seem like simple concepts, but where you go from there requires skill and education. The Math Department demonstrated both qualities in its quest to find the answers to any and every mathematical situation. Algebra was the chief component of studies, with new concepts such as geometry and calculus branching into multiple levels of complexity. In addition to using textbooks, graphs and calculators, students viewed and operated computer programs that demonstrated new theorems and computation methods.

Going Back In Time

Traveling through time without leaving the classroom was the objective of the Social Studies Department. Students experienced the concepts of age-old customs and foreign cultures through textbooks and films. While one class may have been discussing the ancient Greek olympics, another might have been examining issues of current elections. This broadness of subjects kept all interested in the new areas explored. New cultures and political systems provided alternative views to the American way, in addition to the examination of the origin of the United States. Reaching back to gain ancient information proved to be challenging, but entertaining and interesting as presented by the staff of the Social Studies Department headed by Mr. Ted Parent.

Weird Science

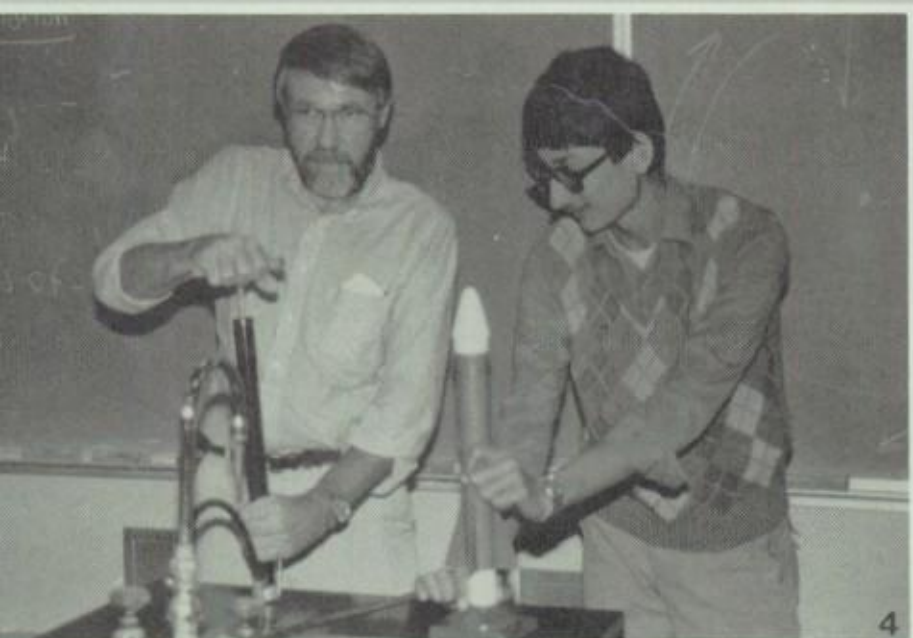

Exploring new dimensions was the goal of the science department. Students discovered their physical and chemical breakdowns with the help of textbooks, teachers, and the ever-popular lab activities. Experimenting with the unknown, science activities ranged from explosive chemical reactions to eyeball excavations. Physics classes explored controlling forces over all life, and unusual properties of physical objects. New advanced courses, such as AP Biology, added new levels of difficulty and challenge to college-bound students. While the sciences were popular with students, the staff kept things under control; earth-shattering reactions and examinations of other students were strictly prohibited!

"Having to give re-reminders"-pet peeve of Ms. Coody, ASB.

Their Talent Stands-out

If you had an interest in any kind of "specialized class", then chances were you were in drafting, graphics, electronics, auto mechanics, commercial art, ceramics, band, choir, ASB, journalism, or even yearbook! "Specialized classes" had one common goal: to help students help themselves. In each "specialized class", Marauders worked, for the most part, on their own—whether it was building a circuit board or designing a new logo for Coca-Cola—but they always had assistance from a specially trained and well-informed teacher when it was needed. These teachers had years of experience with their skill and always had to keep up with the latest advances in their field. With special skill classes like these, it was no wonder that the students couldn't help but reach for the stars!

Let's Get Physical

Obsessed with making the best athletes out of a prime selection, the physical education teachers wanted to get those students into shape! No more flabby thighs or sagging stomachs...everyone was going to get fit! Sports to accomplish this ranged from basketball to badminton, track to tennis. A typical P.E. period included calisthenics (you freshmen get those legs up!), a game or two of volleyball (keep the ball in the court!), and a short run (no slacking off on that mile sprint!). Keeping students in shape continued on after that 2:10 bell as most Physical Education instructors stayed for athletics. Some taught future Chris Everett Lloyds a good forehand while others trained future weight lifters for the next Olympics. No matter what they did, though, P.E. teachers wanted those students in shape...and they had fun doing it!

Fringe Benefits

This year's Mira Mesa's Driving Education classes, taught by Mr. Buechler, Mr. Smith, and Mr. Talbott, let hot sophomores and hot juniors learn the rules of the road—California style. A course in health and first aid accompanied this overwhelmingly popular class.

ROP (Regional Occupation Program) classes, instructed by both Mr. Kreutz and Ms. Lewis, drove land-oriented "Hot Spotters" towards possible future careers in landscaping and floral design. Driving and the drive to create beauty was obviously a main theme for students at Mira Mesa...and in more ways than can be counted.

Organization With Chaos

To ask where the center of the Hot Spot was, would usually get a reply of "the office". Yet, both students and faculty sometimes forgot that if it were not for the gardening and custodial services, the services provided by the library and the cooks and the help at the career center, the campus would not have functioned. The custodians not only cleaned up after all, but also repaired broken furniture, supplied the campus with needed materials, and generally held the campus together. The library, headed by Mrs. Midge Backensto, served both teachers and students alike. From books to magazines to films and filmstrips, the media center had it all! Gardeners helped with beauty, while the cooks had the more practical job of feeding the school. When Juniors and Seniors needed jobs, the career center was there, acting as a stepping stone for hot career-minded students.

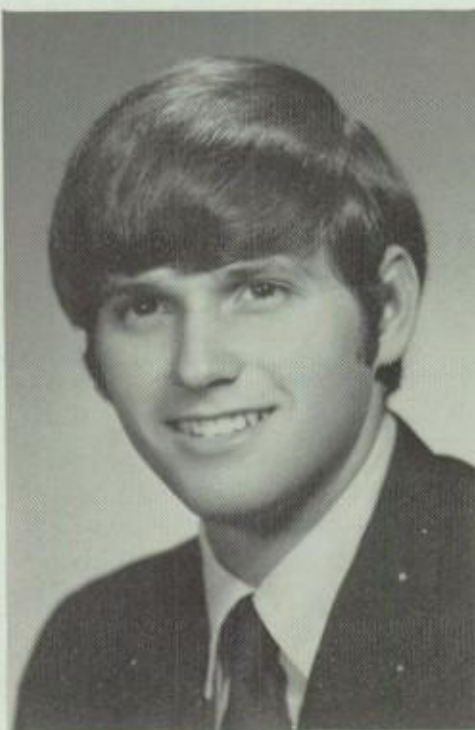

1. The Media Center staff are Tony Coe, Collen Roseman, Gail Stauffer, Mary Scheidt, Jean Potter, Mary Wagner, Midge Backensto, and Lois Cirner.

Seniors

1. During the locker distribution, Kari McCulloch and Stacey Lambeth take a breather before the mad rush arrives.

2. At lunch Marni Gaitan, Michelle Bundoc, Nhan Trang, Brian Bugsch, Lorene Danga, Kim Do, Dee Dee Latimer, Kari McCulloch, Niki Lofft, Kathleen Agbayani, and Mary Ellen Manuel get together and discuss their college plans.

3. On the first day of school, Sylvie Waterhouse, Dinah Evangelista, Dmitry Tsimberg, Geraldine Tenorio, Sharon Randall, Jan Matthias, Maricel Correa, and Stephanie Bardin discuss what they did over summer vacation.

A hhh...to be a Senior! The work was there (and plenty of it!), along with many responsibilities and commitments, but in the back of every Seniors' mind was the knowledge that their memorable high school days were almost up! College-prep classes stretched time to its longest limits, with piles of homework demanding immediate attention. In addition, extra-curricular activities and leadership roles took up many after school hours. Seniors worked to prove their abilities and represent the student body. Even with busy schedules, sometimes holding jobs as well, Seniors managed to make time for fun.

Counting down as the weeks rolled by, four year veterans of MMHS passed the time at the old hangouts and exploring new territories. Seniors knew the Hot Spot like the back of their hands, and were well represented in its many activities and functions. Senior spirit boiled over in any event, helping to collect class funds and spirit points, reaching for the top position. And, between living it up and looking back, the Seniors prepared for their rapidly approaching new phase of life. Whether attending college, beginning a career or starting a family, the Class of '86 was ready to face the challenge!

Gossip

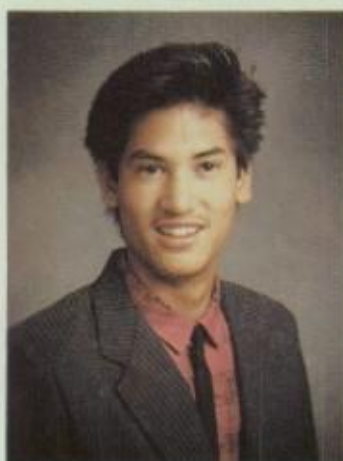

No matter what the conditions were at school, there was always a time and a place for seniors to gossip. And even if there wasn't, a time would still be found. Teachers, friends, homework, the time, the weather, a nuclear disaster; nothing could stop the constant spread of gossip. It traveled around the campus like a disease, spreading its infections throughout every and any vulnerable senior. New couples were hot items, along with public displays of affection, fights, and the inevitable breakups. Though usually transferred orally, the gossip spread through handwritten notes, telephones, and extensive facial and body movements. As for a cure, there seemed to be no hope, and even if there was, that cure too would probably have been ignored due to the arrival of newer, juicier, more controversial gossip!

"You know what I heard?" Ann Kennedy's ears are the first to hear Stacy Ratti's juicy gossip. These two seniors are getting in their fair share of a favorite activity at Mira Mesa High.

Class Council

Making the most of their final year of high school, spirited seniors looked towards Senior Class Council to an outlet for their energies. Much work was done; fundraisers that included candy and pennant sales were enough to keep the seniors moving during the year, but that aspect of the money making was just the tip of the iceberg. Lead by Mr. Bill Male, Class Council officers Grace Monton (President), Karleen Wetherald, (Vice President), and approximately twenty others helped all the seniors raise every cent possible by sponsoring the Homecoming Dance, as well as senior socials. All the money raised was for one purpose, to cut down on every senior's graduating costs. With activities such as the Senior Breakfast, the Prom, the Senior Luncheon, Disneyland, and of course, graduation, it was no wonder a good deal of the average senior's paycheck was used up just for his graduation activities! No need to fear, though, the Class Council did its best to see that every senior had a smaller bill than they could have had in the first place. After all, beyond graduation stood the world of no high school...they had to have something with which to remember their last days.

No Doze

With academics, school, extra-curricular activities and sometimes a job, many seniors found they had little time for sleep. No-Doze nights were common for busy students trying to raise their grade point average and social status at the same time. Long after the local hangouts had been deserted, tiny lights burned in the rooms of students anxiously studying to cram a week's worth of learning into a few hours. It was easy to spot a sleep-starved senior; dark glasses to hide swollen eyes, a slow shuffling walk, and plenty of cans of carbonated caffeine. Yet even when the magic moment of rest arrived, sleep to most was impossible. Teenage nerves could sometimes keep even the most exhausted individual up all night long.

Guess who fell asleep again? It's Kelly Brust who is caught in the act of snoozing- symptom 1 of senioritis.

The Dating Game

From Homecoming to the Prom, the school year was filled with the search for the perfect date. At the beginning of the year, new students offered different possibilities. Then, there were a few of the "new improved" who were now able to catch the eye of that someone special. The night life at the beach of dancing brought other hopeful perspectives to mind. And, when all these places did not turn out with the great date, some students sought the romantic side of a friend that had been overlooked before. But, there were always those lucky few who were able to keep their boyfriends or girlfriends from the summer.

Summer love could last from months to minutes, and were always unpredictable. Just one social gathering could form countless new couples, confusing even the most dedicated gossipers. Were Boy "A" and Girl "B" really serious about each other, or was it just the heat of the moment? Time would usually tell, and if the romance hit the rodes, oh well! There were plenty of other fish in the sea, and the hunting season never closed.

The Race Is On

The twenty-five thousand dollar, red, convertible sports car pulled into the parking lot at 7:00 am to get a space without scratching the "killer" paint job. The junior year was the year to spend bucks on the automobile. Some students put utterly thousands of dollars worth of extras into their motor vehicles. The impressed looks must have been worth it. As most seniors had jobs, they were able to put that little extra bit into that two thousand dollar stereo system, "casual" paint job, or into car payments that would equal renting an apartment. But, being the first one to drive into the school parking lot with the most tripped out truck or the sportiest sportcar on the lot gave a great deal of satisfaction and pride.

Darren Smith and Jeff Houston go dream car shopping, leaving their own mean machine loaded with homework and weekly wardrobes.

They Work Hard For The Money

"Go for the green!" Almost summed up the seniors' feelings on working for money in their final year. Listening to a new album or watching the latest flick were popular ways to spending the dough once it was attained. A job was much more than a weekly check, though. In addition to school, a student's day revolved around his or her work schedule. Planning parties, doing homework, and talking to friends over the phone all dropped to second place behind the job. Whether or not a student's schedule was overloaded depend on how successful was the place for which he or she worked. Newer businesses such as Fuddruckers, Taco Bell, and Carl's Jr. had a larger work load because of all their new patrons. Old favorites - McDonalds, K Mart, and Chuck E. Cheese may not have received an increase in business, but the students who worked there could be sure their jobs would be around for a long time.

After a hard day at school, Kevin Owen and Chris Donatux hit the shores to unwind on the sand.

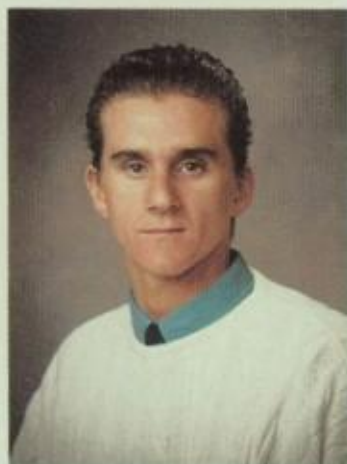

Dude... Surfers Still Exist

They ignored regular fashion codes, rules of cool, and passing fads. They had a private, exclusive language, used only by true members. They had only one desire, one obsession, maintaining priority over everything else; hitting the waves. Who were they? Who else but the school surfers! Zippering around in the big deep blue, the only worry of a surfer was when the next set of awesome shred-action would hit. The unofficial heroes of California, and always a hit with freshmen girls, surfers were in search of fun in the sun, and escape from the kooks of the world. Fellow dudes would meet early on the shores for the dawn patrol, and leave only at the last minute possible. Of all the groups and cliques at school, the surfers were the most identifiable. Who could ever forget that surfers "stand alone".

Clock Watching

The most important part of any school day was always the time. Students had plenty of things to count down: how much longer until lunch, the end of a boring period, the beginning of another or the time left on a pass. Not only were there many times to keep track of, but also many varieties of telling it. Some relied on loud beeping watches with digital accuracy, while others looked for more fashionable time pieces. Those who could hear them guided their schedules to the bells, the rest just followed everyone else's lead. As for those who had spent four years of listening to bells and beeps, and gone through every variety of watch available, they gauged the time by simply checking the position of the sun.

Henry Bagonghasa, an experienced time-teller, needs only to glance at his watch after four years of dismissal bells. A select few have mastered sun time.

Junk Food

Three minutes...two minutes...one minute...the bell finally rang. It was definitely time to rejuvenate a frazzled brain after a long tedious class. And, what better energizer than mass munchies? In fact, most Senior's diets consisted of total junk food from morning 'til night.

Before school, a quick stop at Christy's or Winchell's donut shops got the sugar high going. Between classes, 7/11 runs kept the energy up. At lunch, many students could be seen hitting up one of the fast food eateries along Mira Mesa Boulevard. Then came the fridge raids after school. And, what better way to end the day than a quick binge at McDonald's over homework!

"I'll start my diet tomorrow!" Kathy Niknejad cannot ignore her pre-lunch hunger pains and enjoys her cure!

Not Just A Place To Sleep

A self-decorated look was definitely "in". There was usually a wall to wall carpet of clothes. Posters emerged from the clothes to cover the walls from roof to floor. Often times, you could spy the corner of uncovered cork on an overcrowded bulletin board. In the closet, well...you just didn't open the door. And, who knows what might have escaped from under the bed during the wee hours of the night?

Empty soda cans and discarded junk food wrappers littered every corner, surface and dimension of the average room. Most carpets probably hadn't seen a vacuum for many moons. But even with all the junk and trash, rooms were an undisturbed heaven for any and every student. Being in your own room meant listening to loud music without complaints, talking on the phone for endless hours, or just daydreaming away in a private sanctuary. No matter what the size or condition, a bedroom was the sole spot of student serenity.

Juniors

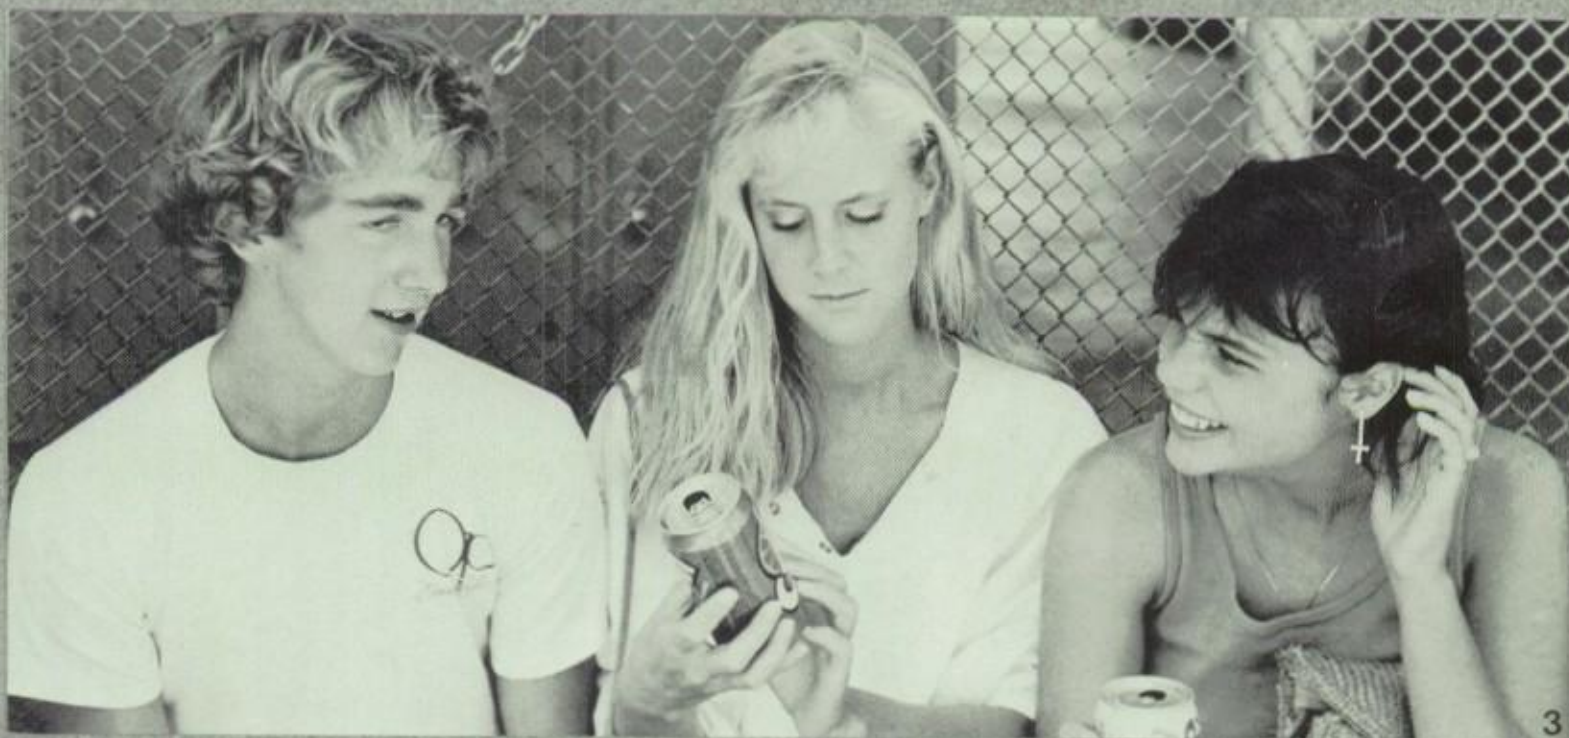

1. Danny Mendagie and David Silva find a new way to get to class on time during Spirit Week's Pee-Wee Herman Day.

2. Jim Souza fires up junior spirit at a pre-Homecoming pep rally.

3. Doug Mullen, Lisa Shieve, and Kim Van Wagoner take a lunchtime break from the pressures of the classroom to make plans for a well deserved weekend.

The Juniors were faced with many new and difficult challenges. Stepped-up classes posed intense academic challenges, as well as the foreboding P.S.A.T.. Homework became more than just a temporary grade; it transformed into an all-important record that evaluated potential. New positions of leadership and authority opened up to organized individuals. Getting and keeping a driver's license also took time and dedication, along with maintaining precious automobiles. Fundraisers kept Juniors busy, as they worked and planned for their big year: 1987. For a fun event not so far in the future, the traditional Junior activity allowed eleventh-graders to let loose at the spot of their choice. The Junior position was an unusual one: having superiority over Freshmen and Sophomores, while sizing up the threat of the Seniors. Showing their strength, Junior spirit put up a good fight against other classes in school competition. In all, the Juniors had a year full of activities, responsibilities, preparation, evaluation, and fun!

Juniors - MCMLXXXVII

Bursting onto the scene this year were Juniors who were motivated by an abounding spirit. Directing this flow of energy was Mr. Don Lee, advisor to the Class of 1987's Student Council. This year's council consisted of high voltage students such as Laura Toller, Katheryn Zuercher, Cindy Hallock, Lynn Fredeluces, Mandi Smith, and Florida Tiqui, with the help of other vibrant Juniors. The Class of '87 headed for the boiling point through fundraisers which included gift wrapping and numerous candy sales, as well as sponsoring a dance or two. With their sights set on graduating the following year, the soon-to-be-senior heated up their afternoons by attending class council meetings to plan for the following year.

The 87' Junior Class Council consists of: Arvin Saluta, Lynn Fredeluces, Judy Mercado, Noelle Santamaria, Gladys Bautista, Joe Ramirez, Shelly Bauer, Jennifer Mique, Tracy Cook, Laura Toller, Jody Matthews, Mandi Smith, Cindy Hallock, Jacquelyn Moorhead and Airon Hough. The Life

Contrary to the popular belief of teachers, a person does not live for school alone. Actually, most students couldn't wait to race home. After bumming a ride off of a friend in the parking lot, the typical Junior "jammed" home to raid the refrigerator full of all that mom bought the day before. Once settled in front of the afternoon dilemmas of television, they began to pig out. Most girls soon after, grabbed the phone and didn't get off until mom ripped the cord from the wall. Some of the more ambitious students picked up their pens and began the tedious job of homework, being careful not to spill anything on their papers. It is this, the life after school, that the student really lives for.

Noelle Santamaria finds the time to talk on the phone, paint her nails, and read a magazine instead of doing her boring homework.

The Big Squeeze

If school started at 7:30, why did some students leave home at 6:30? This was one of the few ways a good parking space could be guaranteed, for any fortunate car owner. Those who took a little too long finishing breakfast or fixing their hair paid the price -- a tiny spot on Mira Mesa Boulevard or Reagan Road, the outskirts of the school. But the parking lot served as more than just a place for cars, even with its cramped size. It became an open hangout for carefree students before and after school, and a brief oasis between classes. With stereos blasting and books thrown in the back seat, the parking lot let many touch base with their lives apart from school, and show off their prized possessions as well! Probably more than anywhere else on campus, the parking lot, while crowded, was the student lounge.

Vote 4 Me

Flying banners, poster overloads and debates all contributed to serious spring campaigns for office. The politically active competed for positions on class councils, within the ASB, and on School Site Council. Each year, the creativity of the candidates pamphlets, and stickers was improved. But some gathered support with attention-getting walking billboards, balloons, and candy handouts. The school newspaper and "On Campus" television debates promoted candidate familiarity without costly campaign materials. With ballots cast and counted, only a propaganda littered campus testified to the political ordeal, until new leaders took office.

Trying to win support, Shelly Bauer urges Trish Ordonez to re-elect Arvin Saluta for Commissioner of Publicity, while Arvin professes he will continue to be the best man for the job.

Kiss 'n Tell

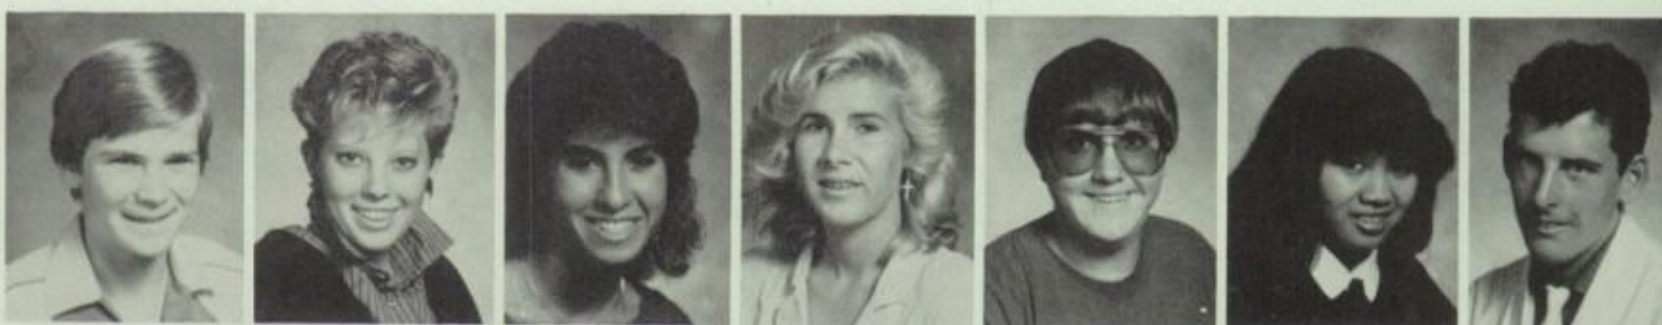

Such torture! They knew that they would not see each other for an entire fifty minutes! They had to say good-bye to their 'True Love for Always' in a proper manner. It was not uncommon to see such couples along the pathway to class. The six minute passing period was fully taken advantage of with couples at all stages of closeness in their relationships. Often, they got carried away blocking the traffic to a certain class, and then the entire hallway became clogged. Although sometimes this was a hazard, it was nice to know that some students held such affection, whether it was a private affair, or out on public display.

1. Janna Simms takes unfair advantage of her "sweet-heart", Harland Wise.

2. Todd Rosen berry sweeps Diana Valenzuela off her feet in a romantic fever.

BUILDING UP STEAM

Sophomores

Kennetha

1. Members of the six pack: Britney Ehrlich, Lisa Nicolaysen, Jen McElliott, Michelle LeMay, Joelle Sudweeks, and Marki Bowen, join to flash their "innocent until proven guilty" smiles on Halloween.

2. Paul Galvazan, complete with Greek gear, joins the sophomore class in the roll call cheer during our Homecoming victory over Patrick Henry.

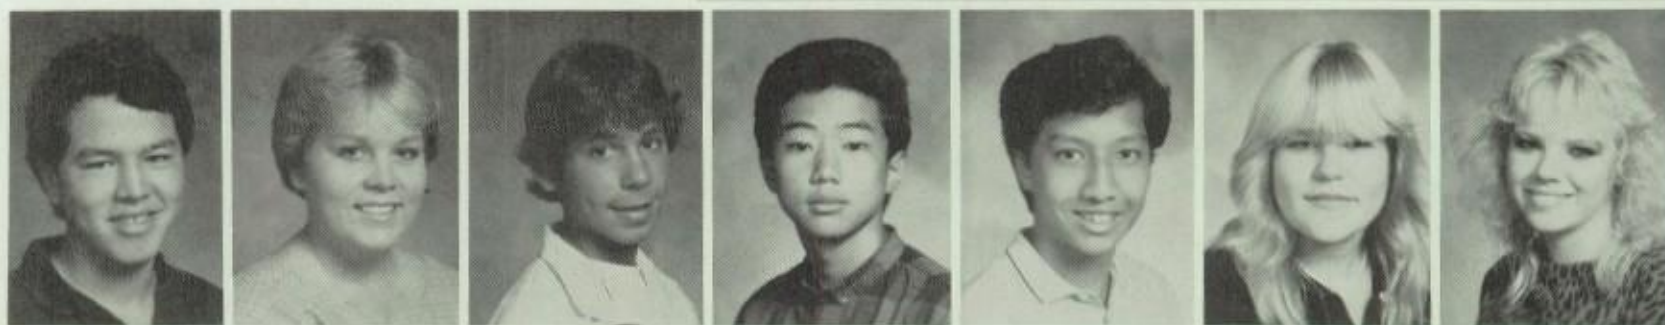

3. Chris Klein, Heidi Hartenau, Debby Barryhill, Danny Lammers, and Mindy Bailey join in the social scene of night football's halftime stretch.

Their second year at MMHS made the sophomores realize that they were on the right track to the place to be. While most of their time was spent kicking back and getting ready for the pressures of being an upper classman, spirit was kept sizzling with the help of the class council. Through candy bar sales, the spirit chain, and enthusiasm, a little more was added to an already growing treasury. But, not all sophomores stayed totally relaxed. With more requirements for college at hand, advanced classes began to overflow. Academic potential was fully taken advantage of. Perhaps the most memorable event for a sophomore was acquiring a license and burning up the road soon after. Building up steam for the tough junior year ahead of them required year long work—and play!

'88 is Great!

"The Class of '88 jams!" burst Michele Lemay. It was that kind of spirit that kept the sophomores' schedules well rounded for the past year. Fundraisers that included sales of candy bars, grams, Class of '88 sweats, pants, and T-shirts, and Marauder folders generated money for the sophomores' upcoming senior prom and other activities. Getting involved with the community in efforts such as fingerprinting small children also filled the sophomores' curriculae. Of course none of the events could have taken place without some form of organization, a job well suited for the Sophomore Class Council. The council was headed by Michele Lemay and Jenn McElliott, along with Kristin Block, Steve Simmons, Kelli Kammerer, Khanh Vu, Caroline San Juan as well as being helped by other outstanding students.

The class council consists of: M. Lemay, J. McElliott, K. Block, K. Vu, C. San Juan, K. Kammerer, S. Simmons, S. Tang, K. Harrell, R. Lewis, J. Moore, M. Bowen, L. Nicolayson, C. Draher, J. Poblete, M. Jackson, L. Francisco, C. Hoyt, J. Coracla, S. Sheth, M. Weissenburger, D. Lew, and Class Advisor Mrs. Sobek.

Undercover Work

Stepping into almost any classroom, one would probably have seen about thirty students busy at work. But, taking a closer look, one would find out what was really going on in class. Girls pretending to be studying had actually received a new Mademoiselle or a juicy note. Those who had claimed to be near-sighted weren't scrutinizing their books, but catching a nap instead! Remember that often in the classroom, not everything was what it appeared.

Rude Awakening

During the school year, roosters weren't the only ones up at the crack of dawn. The alarm clock was dug up from the bottom of the closet so that some students could rise, up to an hour and a half earlier, to put together the perfect outfit or work on the totally "casual" hairstyle. While curling irons were warming, some would be frantically calling all of their friends to borrow a shirt or sweater to top off a favorite outfit.

Then again, there were those who rolled out of bed at 7:00 and into their seats, not a second too soon, at 7:31. As far as breakfast was concerned, for those few who had a minute to spare, most grabbed a coke and a doughnut while running out the door to catch their ride.

After a short nights rest, Lisa Nicolayson attempts to turn off her alarm clock so she can prepare for school.

Mean Machines

Always eager to explore new territory, some two-wheeled tenth-graders had the luxury of a motordriven vehicle that didn't break any major laws. While few could take long hauls on their mini-motorbikes, they were just right for cruising around the neighborhood or zipping over to a hangout. All of the hottest brands were represented: Vespas, Hondas and Aero 50's. Red and blue were the predominant and preferrable colors, but those lucky enough to get their own scooter probably didn't complain if their bike was white. It was a taste of the wild life on wheels.

Before coming home from school, Jon Morrissey and Mike Martinez prepare to cruise the neighborhoods on the new Elite.

Candy Bars Again?

Hershey, Nestle, and Cadbury made appearances on campus to kick off a feared fattening aspect of school life--the unspeakable candy bar fundraisers. Cases of chocolate from all sports and clubs hounded students and gobbled up dollar bills, leaving bulges and sticky brown residue on desks. Candy bar burnout set in quickly and many searched for alternative money makers. Caught in a no-win situation, many found themselves surrounded by sellers when they didn't want candy, but when having a candy bar was a necessity, the sellers were impossible to find. A probable reason for this was that many vendors ate all the candy themselves and then regretted it later when they had to pay the bill!

1. Rick Dintino sneaks a bite of his candy bar during a lecture. 2. Dayna Larocca buys a candy bar from Jenny Moore to support the class of '88.

Hi-Fi Generation

There's an old saying that says people will do anything for money. Scratch that. Today people will do anything for music. Students could be found listening to their walkmans on campus, even with the risk of having their source of music confiscated. Music ranged far beyond the music itself. It had exploded into the fashion of Mira Mesa High, as well as the budgets of the students. Shelling out hundreds of dollars on tape decks and car stereo systems seemed to be the latest fad. Nonetheless, money did not bar the hi-fi generation...they still rocked on.

1. Daphne Kendrick's daydreams as she listens to some tunes.
2. Leo Nepomuceno listens to the latest jams between classes.

Gotcha!

1. Erin Connell and Dionne Walker attempt to clean their locker.

2. Mr. Vlassis scolds Chelsea Schissler for dropping trash on the ground.

3. Helen Bernardo and Leony Bowdler leave the store after their daily snack attack has been satisfied.

4. Jenn McElliot walks casually to class through the crowd.

5. Eddie Allison and Ricky Hanson scam on girls during lunch.

TESTING THE WATERS

Freshmen

1. Perry Barcelon, Michelle Navalta, Mylene Rondero, Roman Beza, and Eric Acda get together during lunch and talk about weekend plans.

2. Tresa Benallack waits patiently for the passing bell to ring.

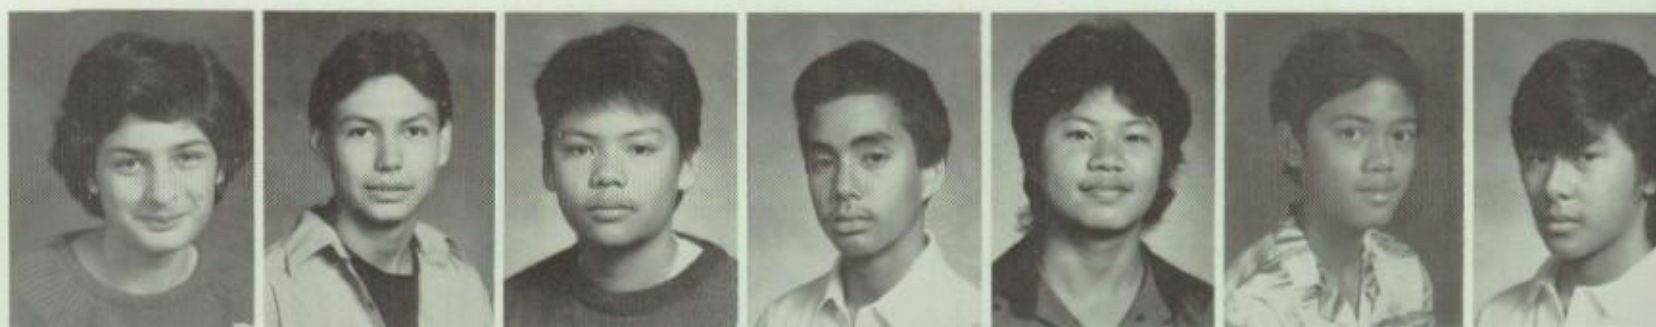

3. Christy Ford and Missy Cowen hurry along to first lunch before the tardy bell rings.

Approximately 900 incoming freshmen could not escape the fiery allure of the cool new locale of school. They were finally able to attend MMHS. Most freshmen dove in, head first, to the excessive amounts of sizzling spirit. Right from the first group candy sale to the last, the freshmen were just getting into the heat of things and earning to pull together a treasury for the light at the end of the tunnel—the Prom.

As far as clubs and organizations, most freshmen seized the golden opportunity to sweat it out and gain prestige. It was the year to realize that extra-curricular activities were fun. From athletic teams, where some rocketed to the Varsity spots, to academic clubs there was always the presence of the bright eagerness of a freshmen. They were now ready to take the plunge after just testing the waters.

Cool Threads

Moving up to high school meant updating wardrobes for many freshmen. There were several ways to acquire these new "cool threads". Some of these freshmen girls saved all of their babysitting money. The guys usually had extra money from paper routes or odd jobs around the house. Other students bummed money off of their parents claiming that none of their old clothes fit anymore.

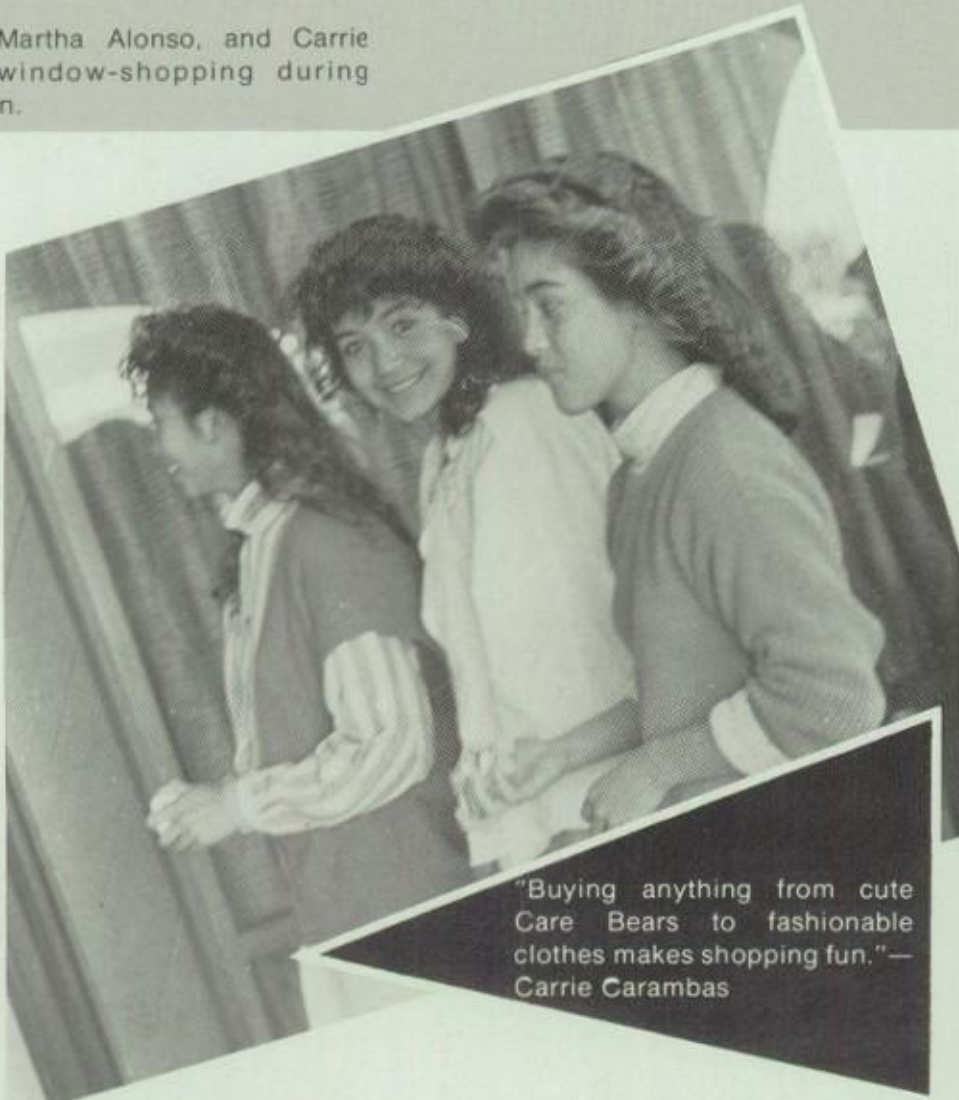

The next step on the freshmen adventure of acquiring a new wardrobe was getting to the stores. Some students took the bus to the far away sites such as UTC and La Jolla Village Square. For variety, others went to Fashion Valley and Mission Valley Malls. And, for those lucky enough to bum a ride from Mom, Dad, brother, or sister there was the dazzling new excitement of downtown Horton Plaza. Then, there were those who went to places within walking distance such as Clothestime or Mira Mesa Mall. But, no matter where one went, the prices often came as a shock.

Once a student had gotten to the store, with money in hand, often they could only afford not much more than earrings, or socks, especially at Robinson's or Neiman Marcus. Then came the need for a new wardrobe for every season. A hoard of freshmen could often be seen "spending" an entire day shopping. Even so, something was always left out. The perfect shoes...or bracelet...or whatever. But, no matter how long or hard they worked to get their wardrobe together, many freshmen started and ended school with the new "fresh" or "live" look.

Rising Fast

The Class of '89 got off to a great start in its freshman year. Tina Delmar headed up the class as President and helped organize a council along with a number of affiliates. Back-up guidance, whenever it was needed, was given by Ms. Maureen Burke. The usual candy bar sales helped the class start off its treasury. During the middle of the year, an innovative new sale took place. The freshmen sold Santa Claus hats just before Christmas vacation and kept the campus awash in red. To finish up the year, the Class of '89 started enthusiasm for a Parent Booster club. It was easy to find freshmen working hard because of the difficult task facing them—raising enough money for a prom for over nine hundred students. There was no doubt that great progress had been made.

An Outward Realm

Mimi Jimenez
Brett Johnson

Far away from the center of our school lay an outward realm known only as "the bungalows". From near and far students traveled to take classes in the ancient temples of knowledge. They came for the clarity of the audio bulletins and the superb air quality. Our glorious parking lot has now left us, making way for yet more dry, dusty bungalows. Never again did students have the convenience of walking from the bungalow parking lot to their first period class in B43...instead they had to make a dash from the front lot in a mere seven minutes! There was a bright side to the running, though—at least everybody got a bit of exercise!

Tuff Talk

The freshmen certainly had many new aspects of high school life to adjust to, but one of the most important was learning teenage slang. The frosh soon learned the only language that really mattered. Describing a wave as "tubular" would certainly have caused an uproar; "too awesome" or "so hot" would have been more acceptable, and fellow surfers were known only as "dude". For the more advanced, junior jam-master rap presented a more difficult situation. Calling a new song "cool" or "keen" would probably result in a lynching; "fresh" or "live" would have made even the ever-identifiable frosh just "one of the guys".

Silver Smiles

A stereotypical freshmen would not be complete without a set of braces---yes, those inane strips of steel wire and tacky cement that never accomplished anything except to annoy the wearer, to produce a brilliant metallic smile, and to restrict the unfortunate victim from the delicacies of popcorn, gum, Doritos, and peanut brittle. The original purpose of the braces was to straighten out the teeth, but, whether or not it did so, it definitely didn't straighten out a frosh's social life! Not only did braces limit the user's diet and give him or her a tin grin, but it also was a daily nuisance. Anyone with braces had to admit, though, feeling the biting cold of a chilly December morning on the braces definitely did wake a person up! Yet even the advantage of alertness could not out weigh the troubles of the artificial smile. Anyone with the misfortune of having a set of braces should have had sympathy given to the poor soul. After all, braces were always painful when a dentist tightened them too much...even if he or she promised that the wearer wouldn't feel a thing! Unfortunately, the bearer of braces wasn't the only one who suffered...other casual observers were frequently blinded by the piercing flash of steel on bone. Even though others had to put up with the braces, the wearers were the worst off. So, the next time you see a freshmen---or anyone, for that matter---going through the aggravation and agony of having an artificial smile, pat them on the back and tell them it'll all be over soon...in about two years or so!

Three of the many freshmen that wear braces are Carla Carey, Jeff Rudiger, and Tracy Fry.

The Hard Labor Of Summer

When the freshmen were first seen at school, the "hard labors" of a summer at the beach could be detected. The faint aroma of suntan lotion, the sight of a peeling nose, or the ultimately cool shades gave a hint of the ever desired "local look".

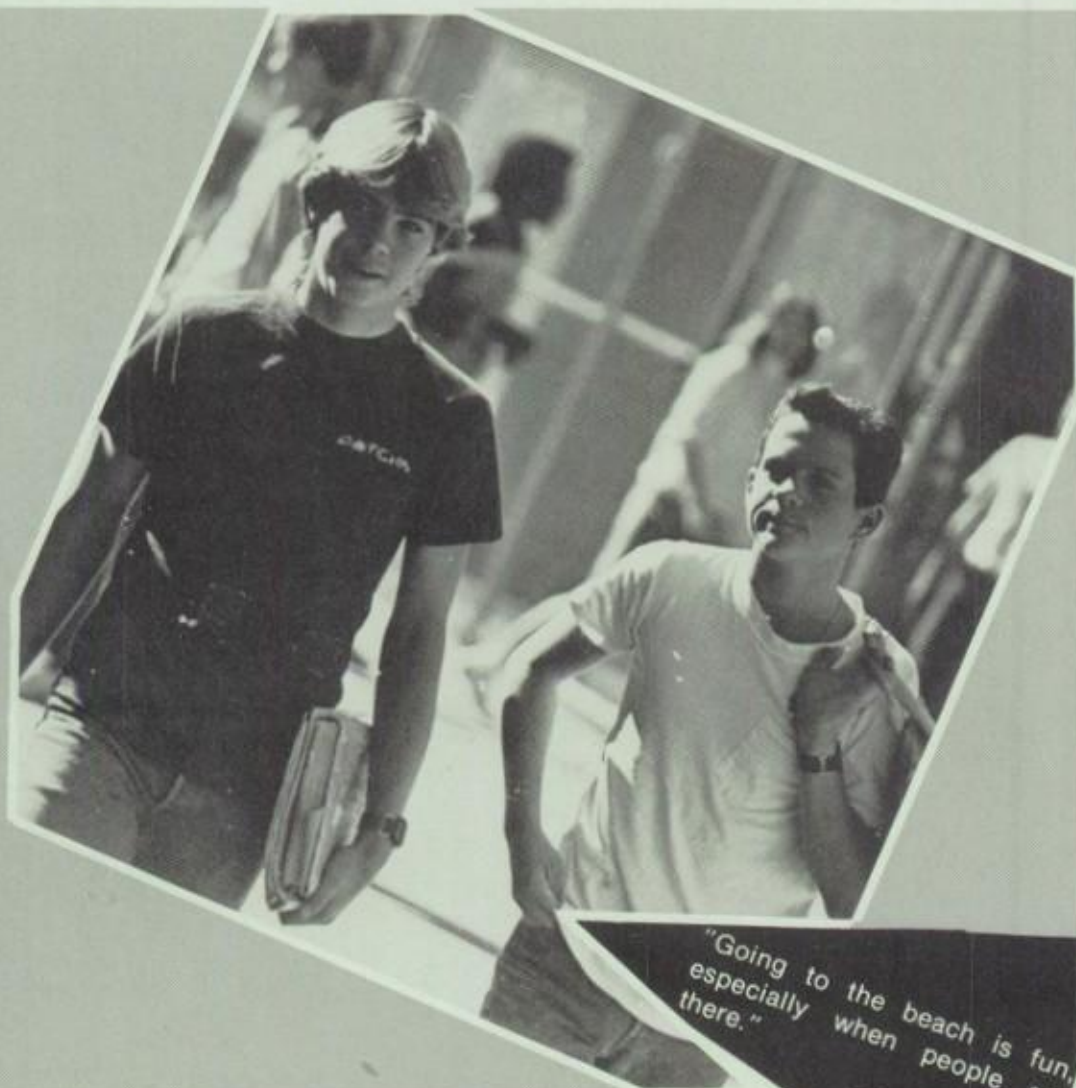

There were many places sought out for the "cool" tan. Some stayed home and acquired a pool side tan. Others were lucky enough to bum a ride from parents or brother or sister to get to the beach. Once there, a tan became a great bonus after socializing and fighting the crowds. Some of the popular beaches were La Jolla Shores, Wind and Sea, Del Mar, Torrey Pines and for the adventurous few, the Clam---or the cliffs by the cove. On the occasional rainy day, students could be seen dishing out up to $5.00 for a half hour at a tanning salon. And then, of course, there were always a few students who avoided getting a darker skin tone.

POTENTIALLY GOLDEN

Organizations

1. Jeff Dickey, Kim Brown, Robin White, Debbie Harvey, and Ty Kincade clown around behind the scenes of the Mira Mesa Update.

2. Neil Palmer unravels junior class spirit chains at a pre-Homecoming pep rally where the juniors and seniors went neck to neck for spirit points. Palmer was one of the three males to set a precedent by joining the cheer squad this year.

3. Dana Nicolaysen, Valerie Williams, Jamie Smith, Peggie Alderson, Richard Matthews, and Diane Padua help in identifying players on a sports layout, but pause for a picture amidst yearbook deadline havoc.

Spirit was hot at Mira Mesa, and many students directed their energy at the many on-campus organizations. New life pumped into all programs, with the Hot Spot boasting over twenty-five active clubs and groups.

A wide variety of activities met the demands of all walks of students. From community volunteers to builders of careers, anyone had a group to identify with and with which to participate. Three new clubs opened interests ever further. The Varsity Club took off at the start of the year after revving its engines near the end of the year. The S Club formed to contribute needed service and funding to the many good causes seeking help. The previously formed National Honor Society also experienced its first fall semester, gathering together exceptional students from the start of the year. All three clubs were a bright sign of growing student energy.

Spreading the Hot Spot heat to other areas, many clubs hopped on a bus to travel abroad. JSA invaded Los Angeles for the annual overnight conference and bash, while the Speech Team headed for Berkeley among other sites, for a battle of words and wit. The Varsity Club hit the slopes to show skiers at Brianhead, Utah how it's really done!

Whether producing, participating or helping out, the main goal was fun. Having a good time resulted in energetic production, typical of Hot Spot residents. With the many exceptional accomplishments of all campus clubs and activities, the school sizzled!

Brain Power

Hard working students were able to show off their good grades through academic organizations. Two of these were the National Honor Society and the California Scholastic Federation. The National Honor Society was advised by Mr. Ted Parent and President Kami Whittaker. To become a part of NHS a student filled out an application explaining his or her academic excellence and extra curricular activities. The first year organization made over eight hundred dollars to supply graduating seniors with stoles. To be in CSF a student had to have approximately a 3.5 grade point average. One major activity of CSF was the annual trip to Disneyland. But, the real bonus was the prestige carried by being a member of one of these honored organizations.

A third academic organization involved competition. Mr. Frank Graham-Caso and Mrs. Naida Groff organized the Academic Decathlon team. Eight students studied a variety of topics from economics to literature and then went on to compete with other local high schools on three different levels. A grueling all-day competition at UCSD turned out five individual trophies and first place ranking for the team in the interview category.

Membership in any one of the academic organizations was an honor well earned, as academic excellence became more difficult to achieve as standards were constantly rising.

Working Together and Making It Work

The goals of Student Senate and the School Site Council were simple: to listen to Marauders and to help point them and the campus in the right direction.

Both the School Site Council and the Student Senate were involved in relaying the students' opinions to people who could transform the voices into action. The School Site Council members listened to students and staff alike and presented what they heard to the council. After consideration of the subjects brought up, members voted on how to budget SIP (School Improvement Program) funds to fulfill the goals set by the students. The Student Senate operated in a similar fashion: once a month during period three, student representatives would listen to their fellow students' views and repeat their findings to the senate. After a vote, action was then taken to realize the students' wishes.

There were many examples of the senate's and the SSC's work visible around campus. The stage in the lunch court, the repainted lockers, and the table in front of the media center were all funded by these organizations. The abundance of computers on campus and new science work centers were products of SSC work.

Get A Letter Take a Hike

Hiking to new heights was the accomplished goal of the Backpacking Club. Getting away from it all, the group searched for fun and adventure in the hills. President Mary Tan led the pack, along with advisor Mr. Andy Martinez. The club took trips to Laguna and Borrego, exploring both popular and un-charted areas. Sharing equipment and working together on the trail kept the groups bonds tightly lashed, as well as helping to make a successful hike. Through the sore feet and aching backs, the Backpacking Club had an exciting, if rigorous year.

Also associated with heavy physical output, the Varsity Club was exceptionally active. Fun and fundraisers were the main goals, and both were well met. President DeWayne Odom and advisor Mr. Leo Casias kept the group on their toes, starting with a drive to raise funds for the earthquake victims of Mexico. Over seven-hundred dollars was raised for the cause. In October, the club co-sponsored the Klassic Kid fun run, raising money for athletes in need of funds for invitational trips. For fun, the club organized a ski trip to Brianhead, Utah, in February, with both members and non-members participating.

Language Opens Doors

Members of the MMHS Speech Team proved that "Speech is power!". This motto led the team, along with Coach Harriet Marriner, to several victories. As a team, members placed in tournament after tournament. Individuals also received the spotlight after working hard to receive their own individual trophies. Last year's team was filled with many younger, inexperienced members, but, with their proven successful performances there was promise for a powerful future team as well.

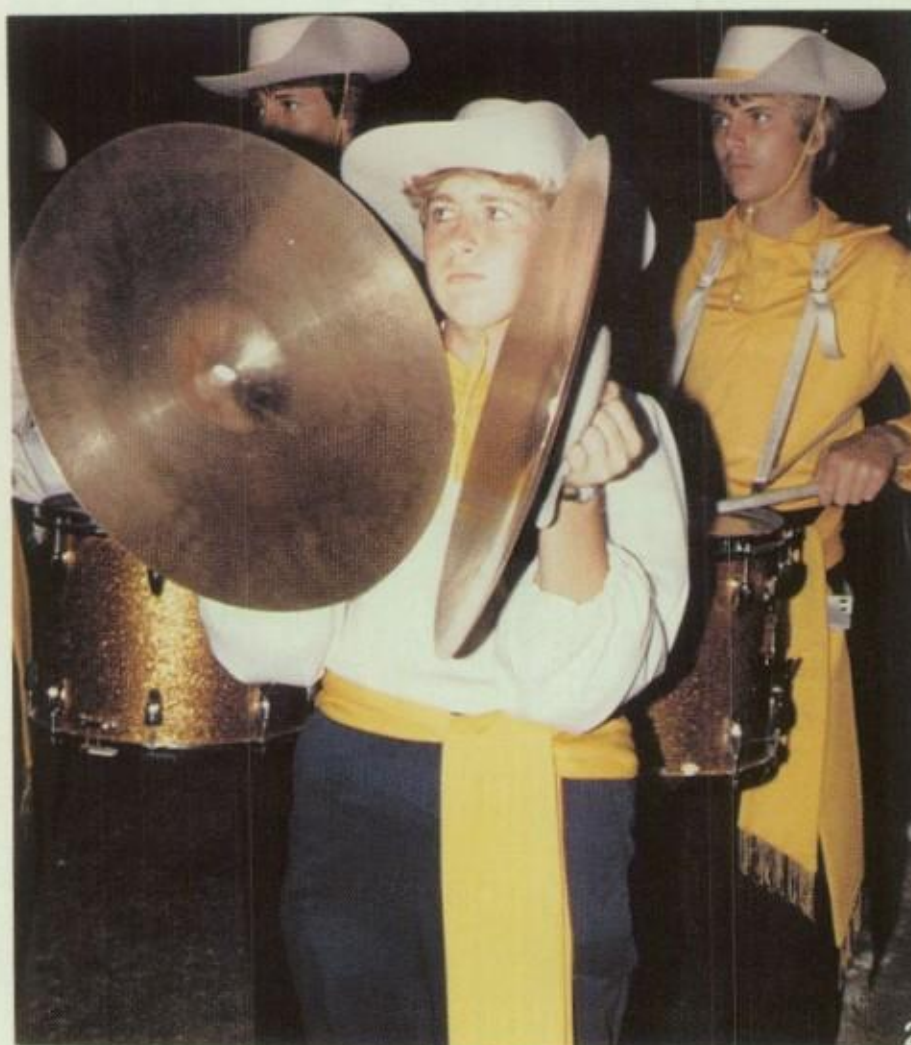

While some students spoke about others in the world around them, four students came from various countries to Mira Mesa. As Patrick Pillhofer put it, they left their own familiar surroundings to visit "the cool country of America". Through the American Field Service, and a good academic record, Elena Cabanas of Spain, Hiromi Nagaoka of Japan, Patrick Pillhofer of West Germany, and Caroline Bailly of France came to stay with American families. As the year passed so did the confusion of the size, number of students, and classroom changing at MMHS. Their adventure among new customs and traditions would be something that they would remember for a lifetime.

Marauders Tune In

Band drummed its way into the souls of excited Marauders, once again rousing victorious feelings from every student that heard its music. This charge of creativity and sound was given boost by Mr. Wolfe, advisor to the band, as he made sure not a single note was off-key. The band consisted of more than just trumpeteers: there too were flutists, tuba players, and xylophonists, as well as oboists and drum majors. Just like after-school sports, the band had meets to attend, and wins for the core were numerous. To display its talent, the band entered competitions such as the Mount Carmel Dual Meet.

Helpful Hands Making News

What's black and white and read all over? The Mira Mesa Marquee! The Marquee staff was well-equipped to cover all aspects of the school's issues and activities, with over twenty members. Staying after-school on a daily basis was common to keep the presses rolling on schedule. Coming out every other week, the Marquee provided timely insights on current school and community happenings, and occasionally featured meritorious compositions and essays. Editor-in-chief, Keith Bacon took charge and kept a close eye on all proceedings, making sure that all designing, reporting and editing was done efficiently and on time to meet the always ominous weekly deadlines. Working together, the Marquee staff put in much time and effort to put out an excellent publication.

A hot new club on campus, the 'S' Club gave out what students put into it. The 'S' stands for service, and the 'S' Club looked for and learned how to help the community in any way possible. Formed by Vice-Principal Barbara Wells, member of the sponsoring Sorophmist Club, and Mrs. Shirley Duchock, the club gained fast popularity with many students. President Shawn Scribani led helpers in activities ranging from Open House guides to fashion show hosts. The 'S' Club's close participation with and involvement in the Hot Spot brought its members and the school a feeling of pride and merit.

Memory Makers and Savers

Covering every aspect of the Hot Spot was the Mirada Staff's new challenge. Identifying the favorite hangouts, activities and fads of all Marauders and presenting these in an entertaining way proved to be a difficult and time consuming task. Co-editors Lainie Block and Tami Forrest led the way by paying close attention to every detail of the book. To bring the staff together and learn and plan, all members participated in a memorable camping trip to Julian, organized by advisor Judy Earle.

Being responsible for the majority of school activities was a big job, but one that the ASB handled with dedication and excellence. New ideas and creativity refueled old events, raising the spirit levels to new highs. President Dee-Dee Latimer, and other student elected officials, under the supervision of Kim Coody, made sure that all types of tastes were equally represented in all events.

Campaigning for the Future

Pushing politics into student awareness was the goal of Junior Statesmen of America, as well as having fun in the process. Both aspirations were accomplished with flying colors. Abandoning the regular electoral offices of clubs and relying on an open council instead, JSA soared to new heights. Regular meetings were jam-packed of students eager to debate local and wor ranging from abortion to nuclear war. Regional one-day conferences were common, along with the traditional, and highly anticipated Fall Overnight and Spring State. Advisor Bob Durham kept everything under control when the heat rose from controversial debates and crowded dances.

Two outstanding students from Mira Mesa Participated in Boys' and Girls' State. Tom Perry and Karen Hernandez traveled to California State University in Santa Barbara to take part in a week long array of activities that appealed to future leaders. Representatives from all areas came together to form their own government and act as California officials. In addition to political competition, sports competitions provided a welcome break to the long hours of deliberation and debate.

We've Got Spirit!

The cheer, drill, and flag squads showed the pride and spirit of MMHS with crowd rousing chants and dazzling half-time routines. The cheer squad was lead by coach Mary Jensen and captain Tamara Ely. The squad altered its image slightly this year with the additions of three males as yell leaders and two mascots instead of one. Through pep rallies, spirit ribbons, and comfort cushion sales the cheerleaders made themselves an important part of the school.

Drill and Flag boosted their ratings with a second and first place ranking at the Mission Viejo Field Tournament. To prepare for this higher division competition, Mrs. Lynn DePaul, along with Drill captain Jeannie Folwarski, Drill co-captain Mary Ellen Manuel, and Flag captain Missy Kahler, lead the rest of the team through long hours of practice. Even before the school year started, Drill and Flag camps helped the teams prepare for their spectacular year's performance.

Munching Out Behind the Scenes

If you wanted good food, and you wanted it fast, where did you turn? The school store! If you wanted the best entertainment for your time, where did you turn? The Update! Both Television Productions and the School Store aimed to please crowds, and please they did. Agented by Ms. Coffin, volunteers in the student store sold hot properties from Snickers and Mr. Goodbars to popcorn and t-shirts. All the money went to the ASB, which, in turn, helped to fund the Mira Mesa Update. With a spot on the show to promote ASB activities, Mr. Male's and the entire Television Productions crew's Update grew from a show featuring Mr. Vlassis' monthly student address to a full-fledged entertainment package. Compared to the eight years the school store has existed, the Update was a fledgling venture: it has only been alive since Vlassis introduced it in his freshman' year as principal. For good food and good entertainment, the Update crew and the Student Store were there.

Talent abounded on the campus of Mira Mesa High, talent cultivated by Mr. Dan Regas and Ms. Norvada Smedley. A highly energetic group was lead by Mr. Regas, who taught drama classes and advised the drama club. Both musicals and comedies were nurtured to perfection; Arsenic and Old Lace, Charlie's Aunt, and The Boyfriend were all performed by tomorrow's stars. Working in the drama field was more than stage acting, however, as other events such as "Scream in the Dark" filled actors' and actresses' schedules. Also busy at work were the members of the Choir and Madrigals, supervised by Ms. Smedley. The three choir classes which held over one hundred twenty students, and the Madrigal singers performed to satisfy Mira Mesa's taste for choral music. Oktoberfest, a Christmas show, and Funday all helped the singers improve their skills.

Heavenly Cooking

To expand their insights on child care, sewing, and consumer education, some students joined FHA-HERO, also known as Future Homemakers of America—Home Economics Related Occupation. As a team they competed with other schools in such events as sewing proficiency, salad making, interior design, and child care. These activities were big bonus' in that they helped the members of FHA-HERO prepare themselves for a possible future career as a homemaker.

While some students competed in home economics, some others could be caught gazing at the stars. The Astronomy Club, lead by Earl Romero and President Patti Duffield, undertook the task of trying to understand the heavens. The excitement and hyper of Halley's Comet attracted new members, making the Astronomy Club a bigger part of the universe. Trips to Reuben H. Fleet Space Theater and Griffith Observatory were made to give a real view of studied materials. But, most couldn't wait until March when Halley's Comet would blaze into full view for the biggest event in seventy-five years.

With a blend of new and returning players out for some fun in the sun, Mira Mesa proved to be a fearsome rival in the Eastern League. Athletes sweated it out in the Hot Spot, and monopolized a good part of the glory on All-League Teams, while gaining the attention of a few college scouts. The heat was on when the Board of Education was forced to make a decision on co-ed teams, after little Kerry Hanley raised the attention of her peers and the media, by trying out for wrestling.

The sacrifices of sixth period P.E. and endless hours after school, were returned with sizzling victories. Girls' and Guys' Cross Country, JV Football, and Girls' Tennis ran off with league titles. Field Hockey set scoring records, and both soccer teams drew talent from an active community league for promising seasons. After last years' CIF championship in the stadium, Baseball waited for Spring for a chance at an encore.

Cooling down from the excitement in the locker room, or sitting out with an injury, were all very real, though excluded from the fiery publicity in the Star-News, and publications outside the community. Candy bar sales added pizzazz to tried and true uniforms...It all fed the fire of SPORTS—Fun in the Sun!

Gaining Yardage Teamwork Sparks Football

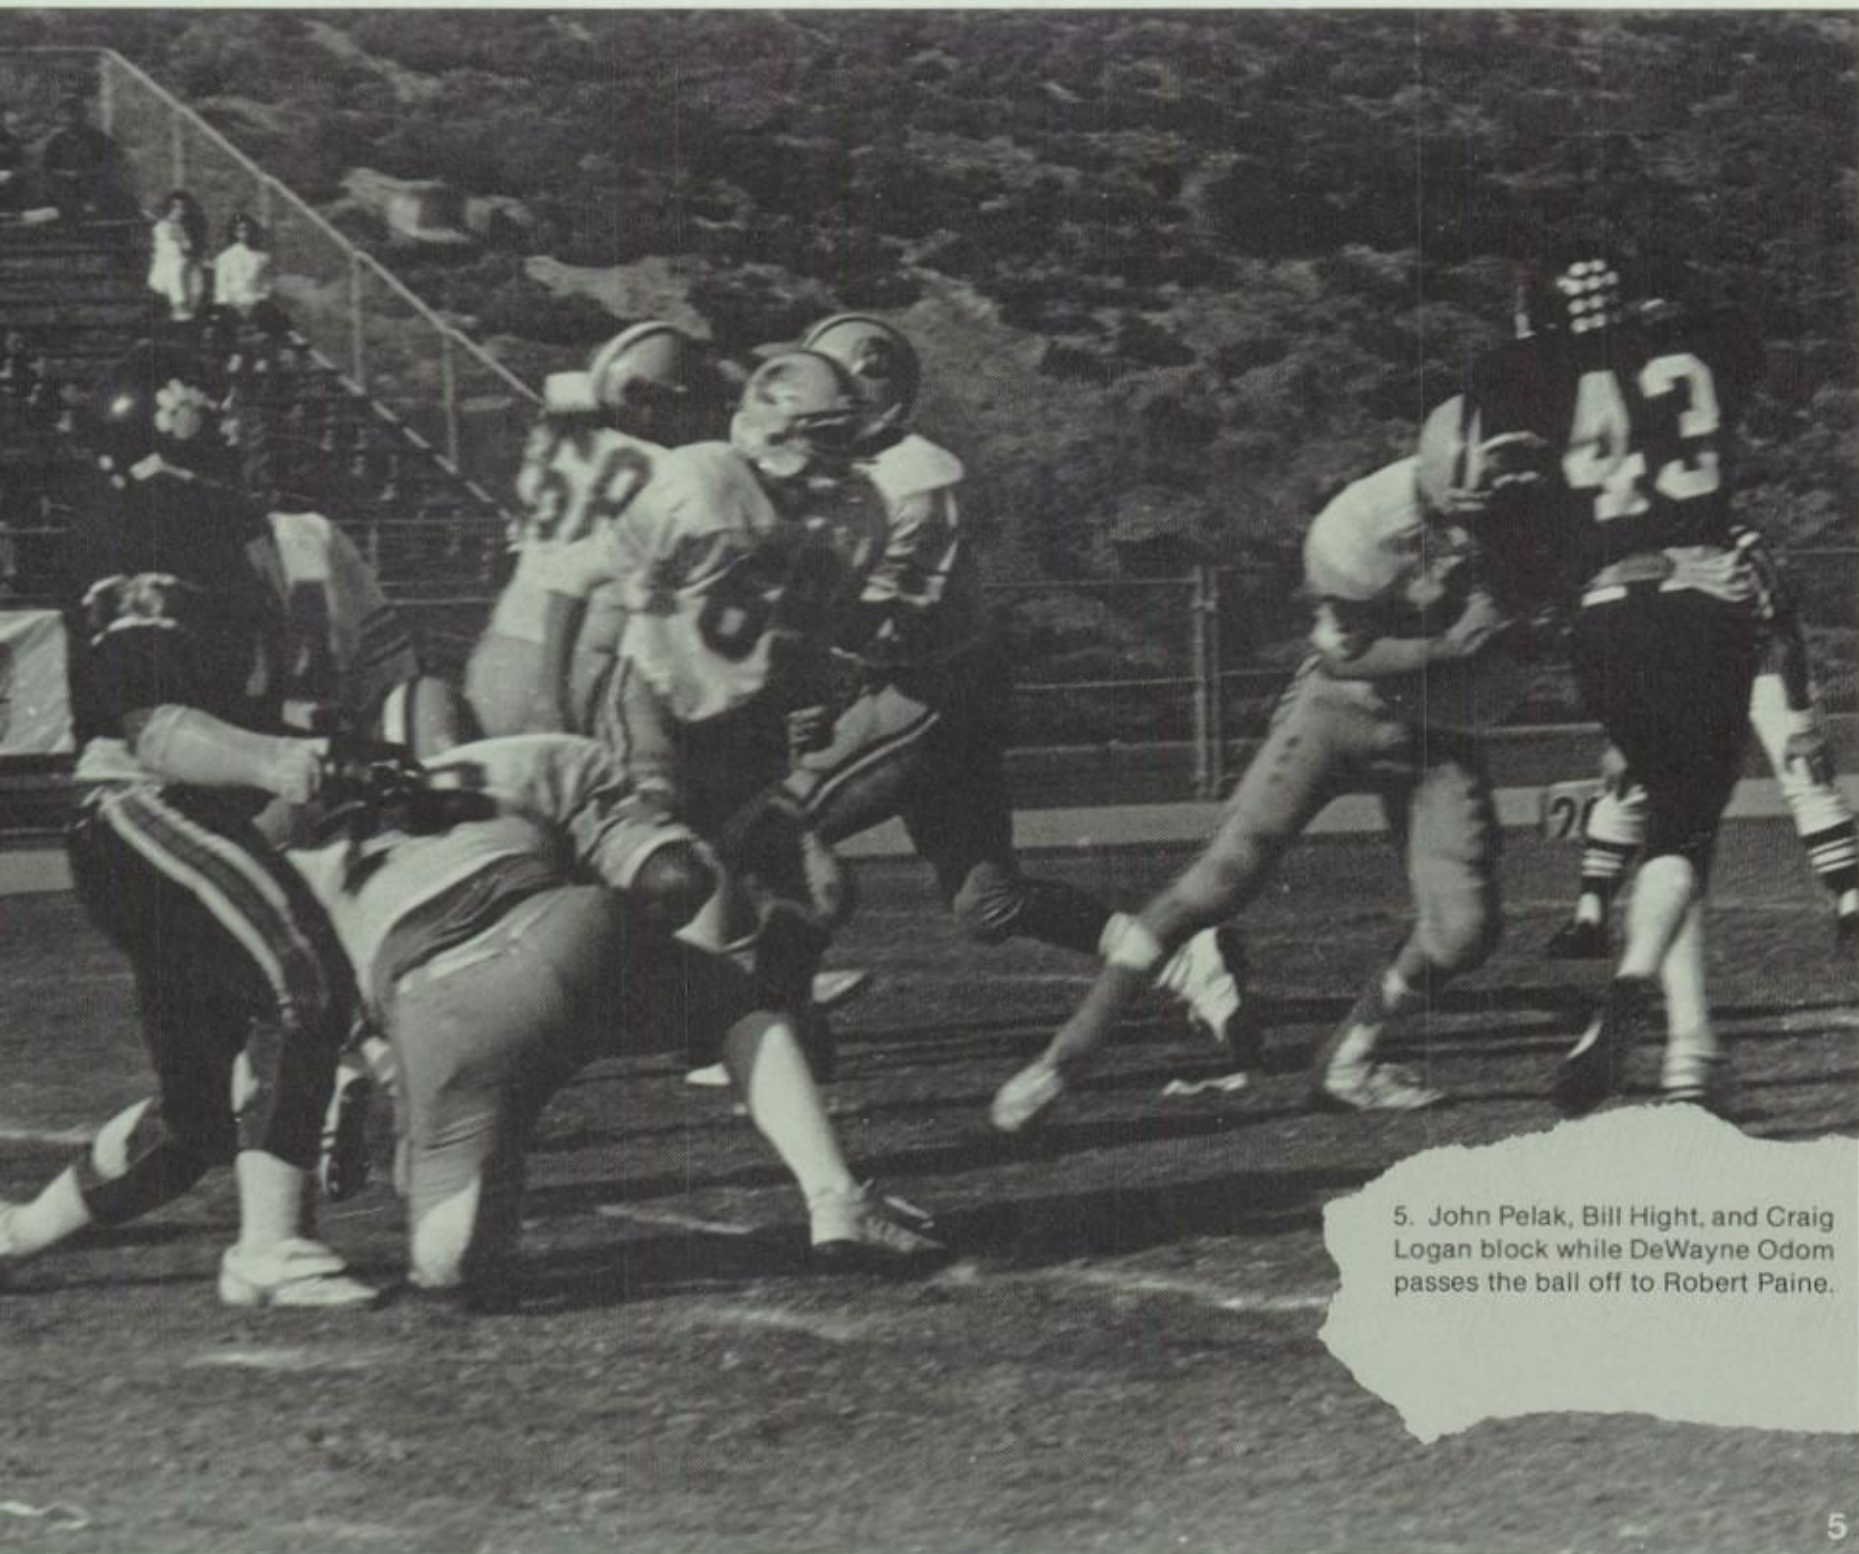

It took determination, stamina, power, and mental awareness to be a football player. Mira Mesa had all these qualities which led them to CIF playoffs. The football team started off great by beating Monte Vista in a pre-season game. Next they beat Mt. Carmel and University City. But, perhaps the most exciting game of the year was against Point Loma. The action packed game raised tremendous cheers from a full Homecoming crowd and Mira Mesa won their Homecoming game 28-16. After Homecoming, Mira Mesa went on to shut out Madison, Patrick Henry, and Serra. They finished off the season with a standing of four wins and one loss giving them a second place ranking in the league. Then came CIF playoffs. Although Mira Mesa lost, it was a loss against the number one ranked team in the state, Vista. For all great teams there were always great players. DeWayne Odom as one of these great players made the All Eastern League team, and was also chosen an offensive player of the year. Other outstanding players to make the first string All Eastern team were Essex Burton, Robert Payne, Ray Bamford, Jack Payne and Chad Smith.

For the Girls' Cross Country team, a spectacular year was nothing out of the ordinary, but the nineteen eighty-five/eighty-six season was indeed a landmark one: the team placed second out of all contenders, an extremely impressive ranking! So impressed was Mrs. Terry Homiston, advisor, that she could only say that it was "the best team we've ever had!" One likely reason for this outstanding season was the abundance of hot new runners. Athletes such as Lauri Borck (freshman), Karin Horowitz (sophomore), Denis McFayden (junior), Kerry Smith (senior) and Nikki Zimmerman (junior) successfully burned up the course that they became key runners for the entire year. They, as well as all the members of the team, ran a grueling forty miles a week---weeks that usually consisted of six to seven days! All the preparation paid off, however, during the November CIF finals and indeed during the whole year. Hard work and dedication made for a hot year of running...and a hot team.

1. Approaching the finish line, Lauri Borck uses her last ounce of energy.

2. Ingrid Stabb strives to beat her best record.

3. Nikki Zimmerman (MVP) stretches out before competing in another meet.

Overcoming the success of a previous team presents a major challenge to all members of the new squad. This year's JV Football team not only repeated last year's success, but also hit new team highs in the history of the school. This triumph was heralded primarily by the team's conquest of the Eastern League; not for the first time, but the second year in a row. In addition, the team ended the season holding an outstanding league record of 4-1. Coach Gary Blevins was the guiding force that led the team to many victories. Blevins credits the group as the best passing team in the history of the school; eight touchdown passes and four shut-outs proved his point. The team started off with two losses and a tie, but that didn't stop them from their inevitable conquests. Continuing on, they won four games in a row, lost to Madison, and came back again to beat Henry and Serra. A major victory for the team was the defeat of top-ranked Morse for the fourth year in a row. The offense scored an average of 12.6 points per game; the defense averaged was 7.4 points per game. JV football was very successful.

We know Mira Mesa like the back of our hand!" exclaimed Richard Potter, and he definitely had a good reason to so state. He, like all the other runners on the Guys' Cross Country Team, ran through the housing developments and shopping districts of Mira Mesa almost every day after school on ninety minute runs which trained them for their three mile courses. Hard work and hard practices placed them second in their league, fourth in CIF, and fifth in the entire county! Both coach Dennis Lottermoser and the team's captains

Richard Morales and Brock Trepton led the way to a four to one league record. Freshmen and sophomores were definitely up and coming prospects, but veterans Steve Vavrunek, Andrew Tastad, Peter Stojadinovic, Jim Oullette, Grant Moseley, and Craig Miller surfaced as key runners. Practices included running sprints, long distance runs, stretching, and weight lifting. Motivating the team was the Las Vegas Invitational, a highlight of the season, where top runners competed for trophies and recognition.

Waterpolo Builds New Team

As the player swiftly glided through the water, his arm raised high and he slam dunked the ball to the net. A number of guys and girls were able to try out the action of waterpolo for the first time, with only two returning varsity players. Although the team ended the season with an overall standing of 2-17-0 Richard Bark's and Ed Salanga's talents were not overlooked. These outstanding players were recognized with an honorable mention on the All League team.

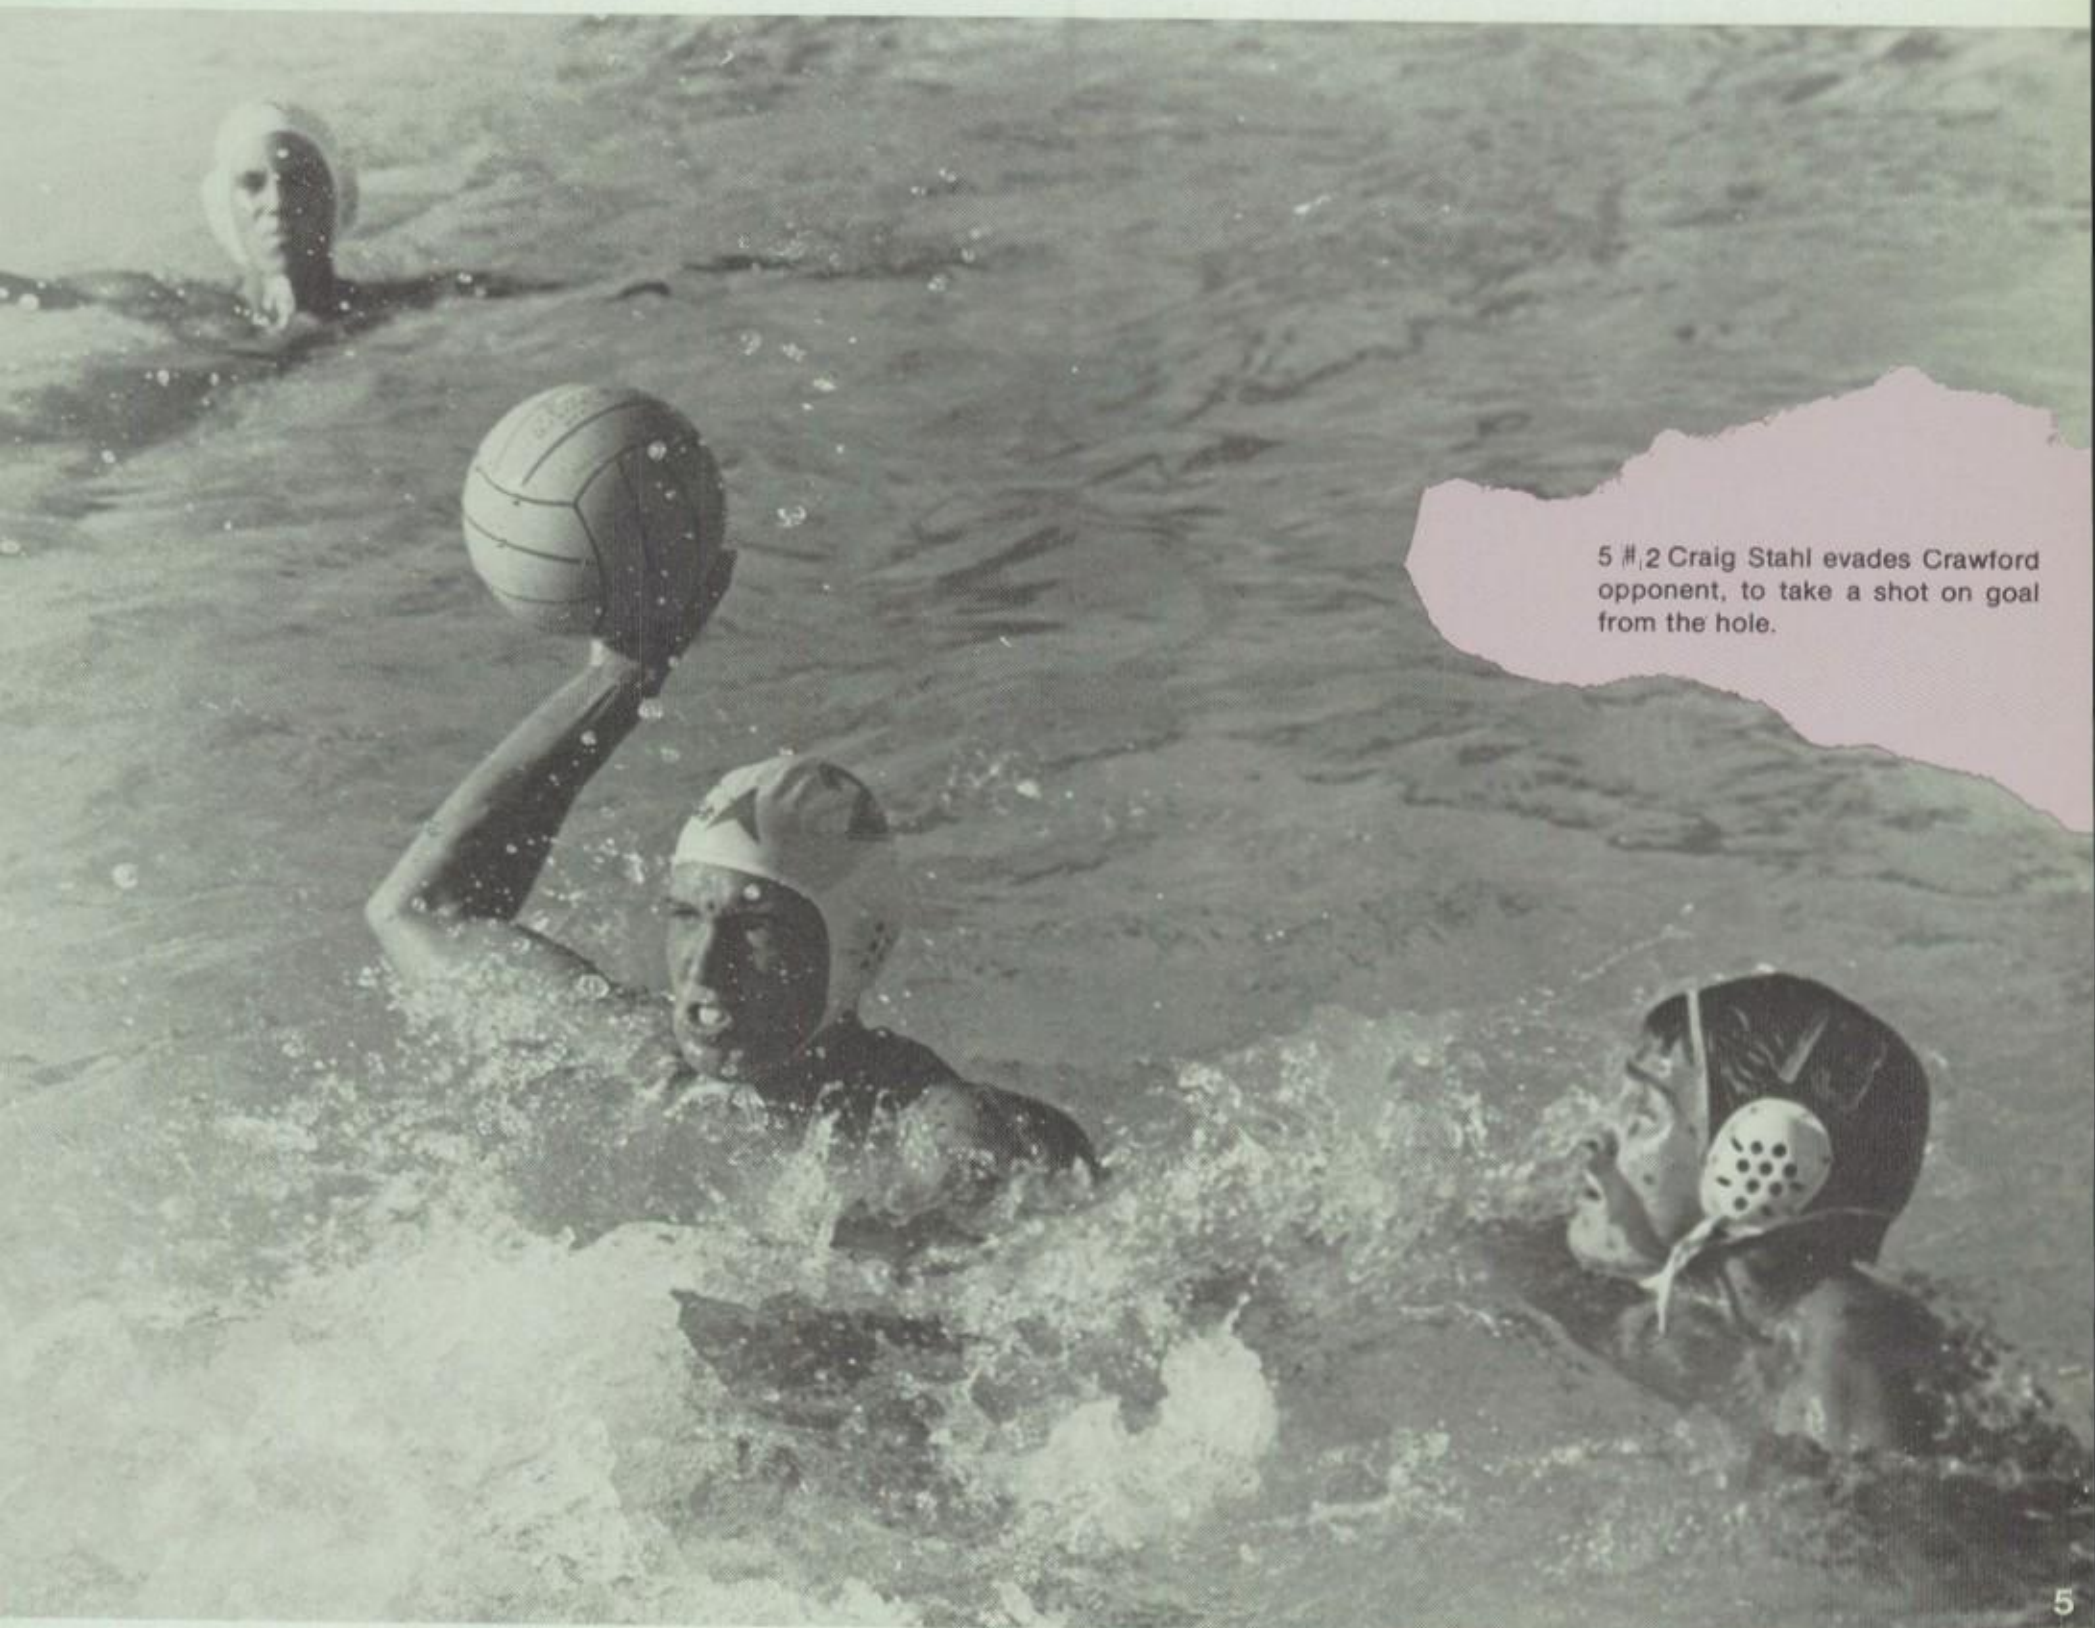

Hot new perspectives were discovered in the junior varsity team. Two main powers were Chad Johnson and Jeff Lewis. They, along with the rest of the team, rose to recognition by finishing the season with a shut out 8-0-0 league standing. Mira Mesa JV waterpolo made themselves known again when they snatched first place at the competitive Crawford tournament. The team showed that it was "no sweat" to be undefeated in the league, and to come out 13-4 overall. What an accomplishment for these mostly first time players! These results were due to a dedicated team. They even went out of their way to practice at the NHS Miramar swimming pool. The up and coming JV team proved that the Mira Mesa Waterpolo Team will be something to watch out for.

Dominating the Eastern league, with another undefeated season of 10-0 was the Mack Attack, alias Girl's Tennis. With the experience of seven returning four-year Varsity seniors, and a host of new freshman and sophomore talent, the team easily defeated Patrick Henry and Pt. Loma Rivals. Coach Leslie Mack and captains Niki Lofft and Christy Snow unified and pushed the team through the strenuous miles, sprints, and drills of afterschool practices.

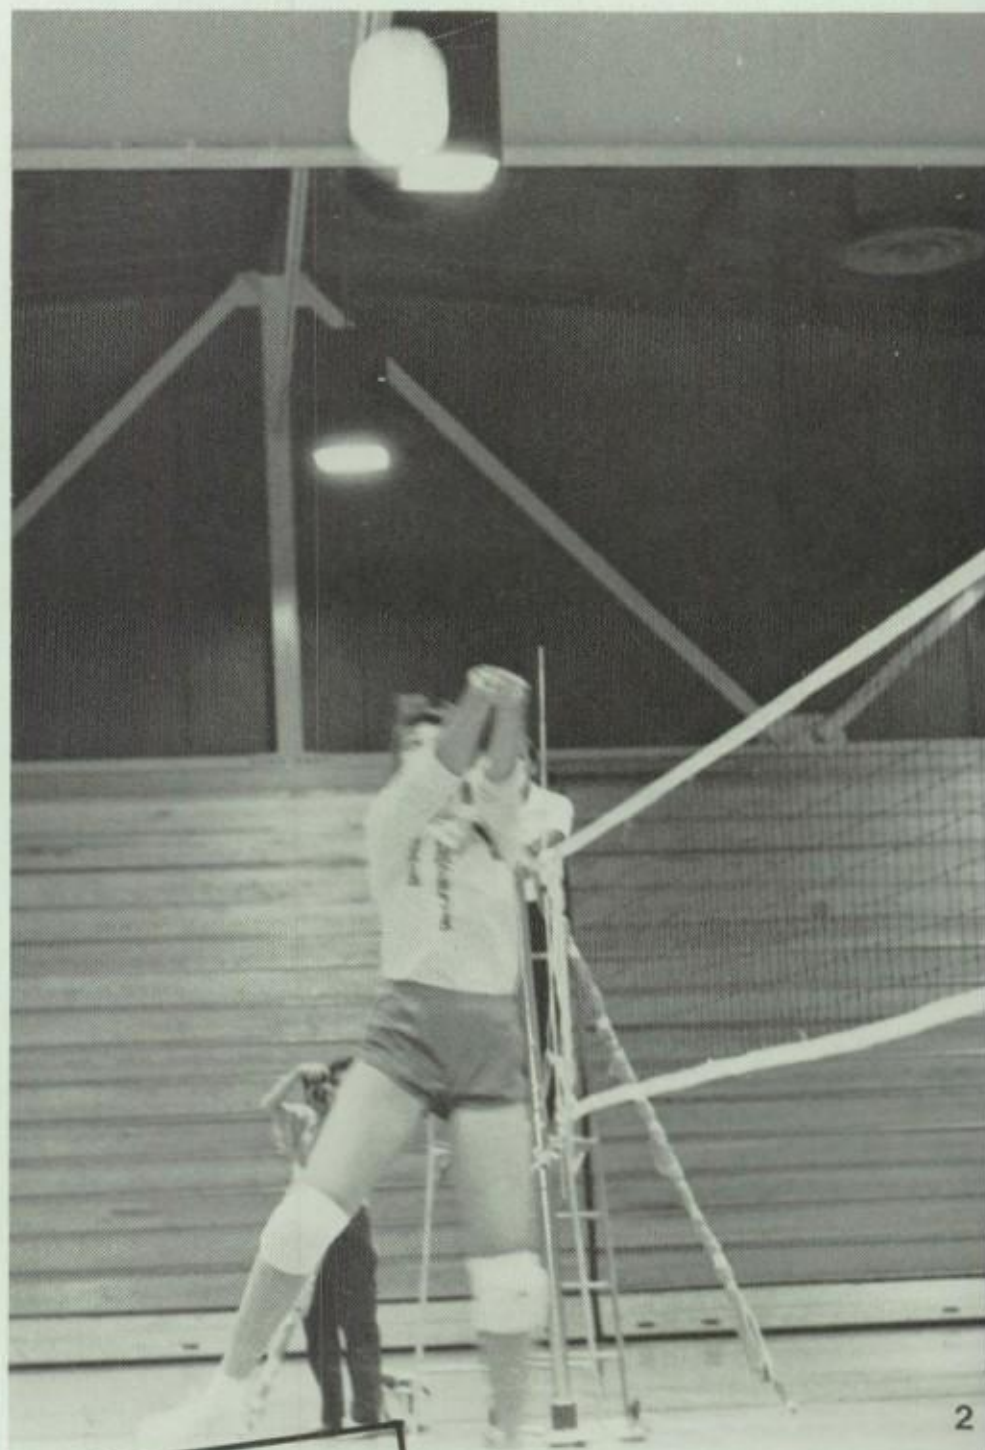

The team of Darci Cooper and June Skinner captured first league doubles, while Kristin Block and Niki Lofft finished fourth. Lainie Block joined the All-League dream team with fourth singles. Tennis' depth was its greatest asset, apparent from the strong showing in AAA team playoffs. The team reached the semi-finals, before battling number one seed Torrey Pines. Outside the tennis courts, team members remained tight-knit with breakfasts at Denny's, secret pals, and group attendance at pep rallies in newly designed t-shirts and sweats. Winning was fun on the Mack Attack.

Spiking their way to success, the Varsity Volleyball team completed another great year. Putting in many dedicated hours of practice, the team worked to sharpen their skills for the many important matches. All the hard work paid off; the team tied for third place with Patrick Henry and Madison and ended up with a league record of 4-6. Coach Ronni Olsen was in charge, helping the players improve individually, and in turn contribute to the team effort. A big highlight of the season was the defeat of top-ranked Madison. The Varsity team last beat Madison in 1980. The squad not only managed to defeat Madison once in a prediction upset, but returned to defeat the opponent a second time as well! Patti Lipp was the outstanding hitter and blocker, while Jenny Nellans was equally superb as the group's outstanding setter. These two Varsity veterans provided both experience and leadership. With a balanced mixture of proven professionals and JV crossovers, the varsity team lived up to all expectations.

Sticking To It

New Fielders Score

Perhaps the roughest field sport for girls is field hockey. But, the varsity team demonstrated that they could take it by finishing off the season as third in the league. This came as a great accomplishment because the team only had three returning players. The young team was able to pull out of the season with an 8-4-0 standing. It came as a surprise when the action of the Mira Mesa game centered on the offensive side. The offense scored more points than any previous year. Two of the players that helped make this possible were Minette Ozaki and Anna Mendez. Minette kept the offensive action while Anna kept up the defense as center half-back.

The season was highlighted by two action packed, exciting games. The most competitive game for the varsity team was against Torrey Pines, a CIF playoff game. The JV team competed for the first time, in the San Marcos Tournament. They obtained the little recognized and surprising rank of first runner-up, demonstrating that field hockey will be a most competitive team in the years to come.

Spiking into action again was Mira Mesa's vibrant junior varsity volleyball team. Team captains Sam Butler, Maritess Esteban, and Jenny Moore all contributed to the team's smashing season. Practices were held twice a week, Wednesday and Fridays, and they involved drills in bumping, serving, spiking, and diving. Although Maritess was the only returning player, the new comers were all extremely adaptable and helped to keep the team a great defensive group. Coach Carol Stowe also helped to make sure the Girls' skills were up to par for the Hilltop Tournament. Height, too, was on their side, as almost every player was taller than the usual. Pizza parties, practices, and comraderie kept the team quick and consistent...and definitely wanting more.

Shoot To Win

Varsity Basketball

The Boys Varsity Basketball team had another exceptional season, with a hot shot for victory at the playoffs. The team had traveled far from previous squads, boasting a skilled crew made up mostly from experienced seniors. However, two varsity newcomers also played important roles. Sophomore Dave Lee was a top scorer, demonstrating above-average talent on the court. Junior Mike Eicher also worked hard to keep up Marauder victory levels. Heavy-scoring seniors included varsity veterans Bill Lee, Sean Carter and John Hannon. All three provided leadership and team unity, which made scoring easier and more frequent in the game. With an overall record of 15-7 and a league standing of 5-3, few could dispute the team's superiority. A good example was the defeat of top-ranked Morse, which had previously stood undefeated in the league. Another exceptional event was the Hilltop Tournament early in the season, when the mighty Marauders took home the championship trophy. While other teams slowed down on the court in the last minutes of a game, the Marauders always produced extra bursts of unparalleled energy and skill, resulting in common climatic outcomes that kept the many fans on their feet.

The JV team proved to be the breeding ground for Varsity Basketball players as Coach Gary Blevins helped the team through vigorous practices. In fact, the difference between this team and teams from previous years was the actual physical strength found in the players. This physical, along with a lot of talent from among all of the players, lead to a third place ranking in the Eastern League.

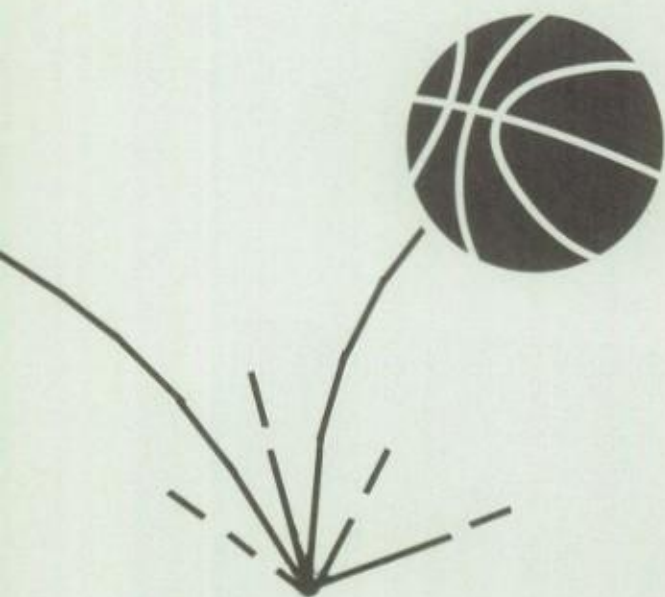

Although the team had helped all of the young players develop their talent and technique, a few of these players stood above the rest. Mira Mesa's offense was carried off by Ray Rowe and Karey Humphry, considered the best players of the team. While the defense was often dominated by Jim Nawrocki. When these players worked together, an awesome game was often produced. One of these games was against Morse. This game was of special interest because it was the first time Mira Mesa had beat Morse on their court with a score of 51 to 40. Future Varisty Basketball teams will certainly gain the early talent found in this year's J.V. team.

Taking A High Risk

Basketball Aims to Please

If an award was given out for effort, the girls' varsity basketball team would get the trophy without question. It was a tough year for the girls, as the team was generally a 'new' team since most players had little experience in basketball other than a casual game. But players like Dee Dee Latimer (team captain) and Julie Ohrmund (co-captain) pushed themselves and the team towards future victories. Ms.

Olsen, coach for the team, believed that the only reason the team wasn't a total success was because they had no chance for practice previously to their involvement in high school. The potential and spirit were definitely there; the players just lacked the experience of previous games. But they made up for experience with dedication to the team and pride in there sport.

Returning Players Shoot High

2. Carrie Joyce lays up a jump shot to try and score against her opponent from Serra High.

The Girls JV Basketball team proved to be an excellent training ground for newcomers to basketball. Long hard hours of practice brought the young teams individual skill up to Varsity levels, giving a clue for future star players. Coach Larry Elliot kept the girls working hard, teaching the necessary tricks for the trade for maximum scoring. The entire team performed excellently as a whole, working together as equals rather than around a single star player. High scorers for the squad included sophomore Mary Ellen Moore and freshman Loenara Lampert. The team improved greatly over the year. One example of their growing superiority were the Madison games. After losing to the top team early in the season, the girls came back at the second game, greatly reducing Madison's victory margin. The girls also displayed true talent in their battle with La Jolla. This talent will help the team to grow in future years, as well as add some new faces to the Varsity squad.

Wrestlers Pin To Win

New Eastern League Champs

If, "No Pain, No Gain" was the motto, the '85-'86 Varsity Wrestlers must have gone through a lot of pain. At only midway through the season, the wrestlers had managed to gain a first place ranking in the Eastern League. At that point in the season, they had obtained an overall standing of 8-0-1. Coach Jon Talbott made sure that there were "No Wimps" by pushing the guys to the limit through strenuous workouts.

The actual performances of the wrestlers themselves brought about their well earned competitive reputations. These included John Medina at 101 pounds, Linh Nguyen at 115 pounds, and Bill Clem at 193 pounds. Tournaments often brought attention to these individual outstanding wrestlers. At Mira Mesa's own tournament, John Medina took first place and the team finished fifth overall. At an overnight tournament in Holtville, Craig Logan took a second place, Linh Nguyen took a fourth place, and Bill Clem placed fifth. But, perhaps the match that most demonstrated the superiority of Mira Mesa's Wrestlers was against Morse, where the final score was 63-3. These wrestlers have set a precedent that will definitely be hard to beat as Eastern League Champions.

Serra Mesa, Kearney, Saints; these schools were all wins for the junior varsity wrestling team. Both the junior varsity and the newly created freshmen wrestling team were victorious. The JV team was going for a win in the Eastern League Division, and was sought after by placing an astounding second place team in the preceding Madison tournament. Victories for the junior varsity team were assured by such high quality team members as David Dunhoff, Wally Matkovich, Jason Nichols, Matt Patascil, and Kenny Beavers, all of them sophomores. Said Coach Talbott about his prize team, "We had a young group this year...only about five or so seniors." The majority of the wrestlers were returning for another year of action, and were good prospects for future varsity members. For their first year in wrestling, the fresh frosh wrestling team, too, did exceptionally well during the season...just waiting for the chance to move up to JV. Triumphs over Serra Mesa, rival team to Mira Mesa High, gave the JV team members the edge over other wrestlers, an edge which soon hurtled them to victory after victory for the Hot Spot!

The Untouchables

Soccer Champs Pass Through Competition

It was clear to any team across the county that a game against the mighty Marauder Boys' Soccer team was a losing proposition. The team was unequalled in skill and stamina, maintaining a number one position throughout the season in the league. With an excellent league standing of 6-0-1, and an overall standing of 10-3-3, the team clearly had a hold on the top title.

Team captains, Brian Bugsch and Sean Bowers kept both scoring and spirit levels high, keeping the team together for tight "working" relationships on the field. Junior, Richie Baird contributed greatly to the offense in his position as forward. Paul Gelveson and Stacey Lambeth also served exceptionally well in the scoring department. On the defense, senior Brent Demko kept the ball in the opponent's area in his position as stopper, while goalie, Sean Bowers made sure that the few attempts at the Marauder goal always failed. Senior, Brian Bugsch, helped out on both sides of the field, hustling as half-back.

The '85-'86 team performed exceptionally well, making them hot prospects for CIF tournaments. Their games with top-ranked La Jolla and Poway, which both resulted in ties, proved they still had tough competition, but strength in passing and a developing combination of offense and defense helped make the Boys' Soccer team Eastern League Champions.

Badminton Shows Us How

Experience, challenge, ability, and excitement all added up to another great year for Mira Mesa's badminton team. Experience was abundant, as most of the team was in their second or third year of playing the game. Returning players such as Henry Bagongahasa, Sheri Corbett, Irma Jiminez, and Sue Sit showed that experience was extremely advantageous and helped catapult the team to prestige and glory. Challenge was supplied by other fine badminton teams from Hoover, Patrick Henry, La Jolla, University City, and Point Loma. Ability exploded into view whenever the team played, with outstanding players like Hy Chung, Bryan Kenton, and Joyce Saria leading the way. This ability was enhanced by numerous practices and the excellent coaching of Ms. Palmer. Of course, excitement was always there. All the team had to do was step on to the courts and the electricity sparked!

5. The Badminton team consists of: H. Bagongahasa, H. Chung, S. Cole, S. Corbett, D. Davis, T. Doan, K. Do, D. Du, Y. Hackler, P. Hemming, H. Hernandez, A. Hurley, H. Duong, M. Jimenez, I. 5. Mark Robert is quick to catch a possible steal at a game against Grossmont.

Returning from a championship season, the Boys' Varsity Baseball team came back with high hopes and great expectations, along with an overabundance of true skill. The previous year's team made it all the way to CIF finals, where they took the championship against Patrick Henry in the Jack Murphy stadium. The new squad had an equally good shot at this major victory, with the talents and relationships on the field developing even further than last year.

Returning varsity players included Mark Robert, Kevin Hancock, Ray

Bamford, Jim Souza, Pat Cheek, and Mike Eicher. Their experiences gained on the road to the top greatly helped the entire team's continual development. Coach Larry Elliot provided additional leadership, building the team's skills and confidence to maximum levels. Early games and tournaments in the season proved that the winning potential was still alive; including victories against Morse and La Jolla. These tournament games showcased the team's growing talents, assuring both fans and players of a successful and productive season.

JV Hits 17 Home

Experience Goes To Bat

Athletes trying to perfect their prowess and skill could be found on the junior varsity teams. Such was the case with the junior varsity baseball team. Coach Brad Griffith held practices every day until three o'clock. These practices helped the guys get in shape for a tough season. Each year the team achieved its own unique attributes, but, the 1985-86 team had an extra edge. More guys than ever before went out for the team. So, the athletes that made the team had the talent and dedication that almost equaled varsity qualifications. Still, a major obstacle to overcome was the record of 1984-85's JV baseball team. This record was 18-2. However, there certainly was potential to at least match it.

Returning players such as Dennis Henry, Ira Stokes, Jamie Shew and Jim Huber brought the experience to help motivate the team. Other players that began to stand out early in the season were Danny Lammers, John Martin and Travis Arnold who played pitcher and outfield as a freshman. It was obvious that the team had the ability for an outstanding season. Putting in a lot of time and effort they lived up to their own expectations.

When asked how to best describe the varsity softball team in one word, Ms. Stowe simply replied, "tough". Tough was indeed the word for the varsity team, which, once again, had an outstanding lineup. This group was enhanced by the presence of girls fresh from the junior varsity team—girls like Sandi Chase, Ann Hilzer, Erika McGehee, and Mary Ellen Mure. These girls and the entire team were shooting for a win at the El Capitan tournament, and with such talent, they had an extremely good chance of not only attending the meet, but to top it off, coming back triumphant! To be victorious, however, the team had to practice—and practice they did, every day of the week. The girls refined batting, catching, and running skills not only in after-school practice, but also in several scrimmages and "situation plays". Mira Mesa's varsity softball team was definitely one to remember, because they knew exactly how to play the game. When the going got tough, they got even tougher!

1. Michelle Adams is as ready as ever.

2. Julie Sayler makes an excellent catch while Ann Hilzer watches the fans.

3. Jody Robb and Debbie Ricketts display cheerful enthusiasm at their first softball scrimmage.

4. Erika McGehee is dressed and ready to catch a flaming pitch from her teammate.

5. Anna Mendez winds up for a perfect strike.

6. The Varsity Softball team consists of: Michelle Adams, Torrie Cababa, Sandra Chase, Tacey Cloyd, Ann Hilzer, Erika McGehee, Anna Mendez, Jenny Morre, Mary Ellen Moore, Debbie Ricketts, Jody Rob, Lorrell Robinson, Julie Sayler, and managers Jane Bruce and Thao Vu.

1. Heather Berner arrives on base safely, despite pressure from the opposing team's base player.

2. Chris Cooper waits to bunt the incoming ball, hoping that the play will bring in a forced run.

3. Though Becky Duhme is planning to pitch a strike, Tammy Hamilton readies herself to catch a grounder...just in case!

4. The J.V. Girls' Softball team consists of: (front) Coach Mack, L. Escobedo, C. Cooper, T. Hamilton, B. Townsend, D. Sacman, D. Minihane. (Back) Mgr. L. Coyle, H. Berner, C. Schissler, R. Bernsdorf, J. Swanson, A. Russell, S. Wilborn, and Mgr. D. Vandekieft.

6. Deanna Sacman, Tammy Hamilton, Annette Russell, Becky Duhme, and Chris Cooper relax and wind down after a hard day's practice.

Pride Of The Park

Going For The Gold

While most students were making the long trek home to refrigerators and the television, a group of dedicated girls were still out on the field. In fact, every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday until three or four o'clock in the afternoon, you could find the junior varsity softball team hard at work. Coach Leslie Mack was one of the major inspirations behind the dedication of these girls. After only pre-season practices, it was obvious that the team had talent and ability. To help back up the spirit of the team, there were four returning players. They were Becky Duhme, Chris Cooper, Annette Russell, and Jennifer Swanson.

Because of these returning players, the girls had learned to keep a tighter infield and demonstrated more experienced plays. Some of the newer outstanding athletes that gave the major action to the game were Tammy Hamilton, Deanna Sacman, Rochell Bernsdorf, and Susan Wilborn. It was obvious that the girls' J.V. Softball put up a good fight.

Some of the most well rounded athletes were found among the ranks of Mira Mesa's famed boy's track team. Why were they well rounded? Because many participated in up to four events of totally differing demands. Such events included the shot put, triple jump, high jump, hurdles, and of course, long distance running. In fact, these specific events were Mira Mesa's stronger points. Early in the season, a change in the team could be seen. First of all, there were almost twenty more members than last year's team and secondly, there was an abundance of talent.

After only a few weeks into the season, several athletes already began to stand out. Brock Treptow showed great promise in long distance running, while Fred Saria hurdled his way to top county standings. Other county leading athletes were Ray Rowe with discus and shot put, Greg Helzer with high jump and triple jump, and Mike Hendricks with shot put. Ed Outlaw showed potential in most events.

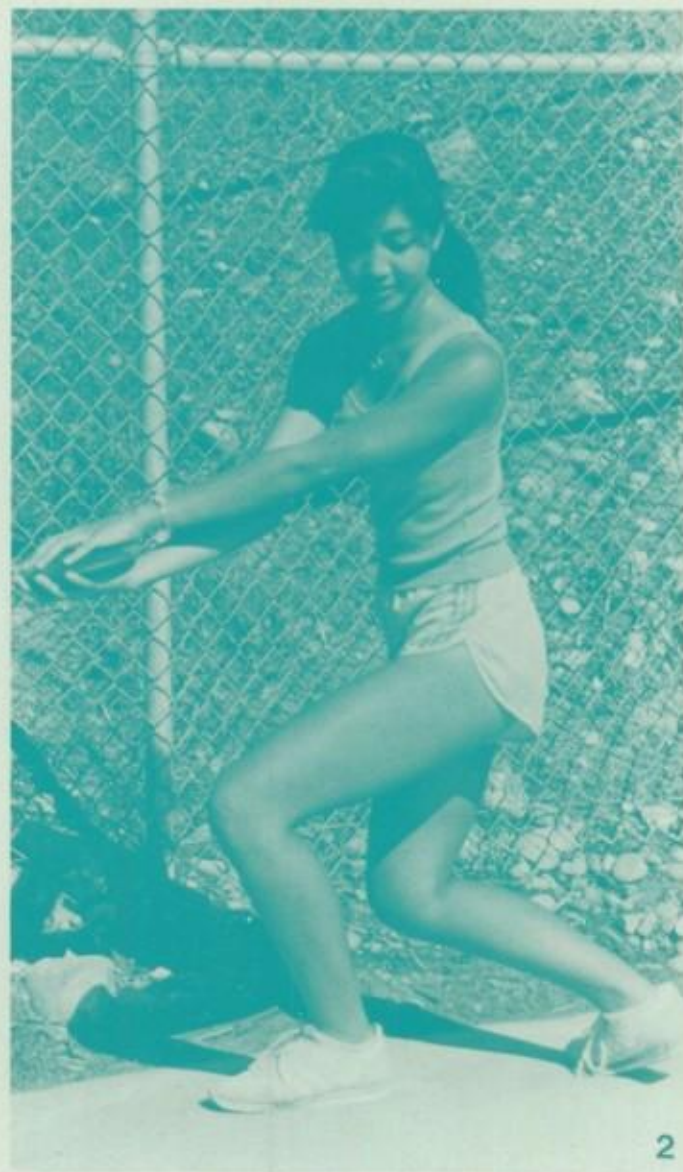

Coach Dennis Lottermoser did the pushing necessary to have the guys give their all. Practices often lasted anywhere from 3:00 to 5:00.

Catching Up With The Torch

Girls Track Goes For The Gold

If you wanted winners, all you had to do was look to Mira Mesa's Girls' Track Team. The team was absolutely sensational, and coach McIntire described the group as "a strong squad". Carla Vaughn and Adrian Slater, juniors, proved to be extremely valuable team members, scoring in the top five for their events. Track events ranged from shotputting and discus throwing to long distance running and hurdling. Sprinters were abundant, and definitely needed, as two thirds of all the events required the stamina of sprinters. Michelle Johnson and Cheryl Anderson proved to be great athletes, as did the entire team. Players got a chance to refine their skills at daily practices and at track meets, which were held every Saturday. Five dual meets were held during the year, and the climax of the season was competition against Morse. Our Girls' Track Team was a force to be reckoned with! Team members went into overload for Mira Mesa, and what resulted was a track team we could all be proud of!

The '86 Golf team swung back into action this season with hot new players. A combination of experienced players and skilled newcomers made for a well-structured group that took to the greens with good shots for victories. Three-year veteran and two-year captain Greg McKinney provided leadership for the group, along with returning players Patrick Meehan, Randy Smith, Don Laubenthal, and Greg Bryant. Their experience was passed on to the many new players on the team. Coach Richard Smith brought even more know-how to the greens, helping skills to develop and strategies to grow. Injuries kept some players on the sidelines and an unusual amount of bad weather cut down on much needed practice time, but the team kept their determination for success that lead to victory. Victory was the word for the previous year's squad, and the new team had the challenge of living up to 85's top ranked group. With the loss of three of the top four starters, some were skeptical. However, the new team proved strong, and their dedication and effort produced not only skill but also spirit. Throughout the year the team pulled strength together, worked and looked like a team that had been together through the years. The team efforts helped to achieve an enthusiastic season along with fulfillment of their meaningful expectations.

Gymnasts limbered up for a tough season against competitors like Mount Miguel, San Pasqual, Torrey Pines, and Patrick Henry. Quite a few teammates were lost to swimming, but exceptional gymnasts such as Mindy Bailey, Dawn Schmitt, Rochelle McCollogh, and Kerry Hanley exhibited their talent in the different floor, vault, bar, and beam categories. Those with a little more ambition, had the opportunity to choreograph their own routines for competition. Coach Jon Talbott and Assistant Jeanne Bartley worked to develop strength, grace, and skill in the team members during daily workouts, so that the gymnasts could launch into top scores at their meets. Aerials, flips, tucks, and walkovers shaped the new talent on the team, into experienced competitors for upcoming seasons.

To keep up their endurance and strength, it was not unusual to see the Boy's Tennis team practicing to exhaustion—what usually lasted up to three hours a day. The main spirit of the team could often be found in the returning players. These were Bryan Doane, Brian Bugsch, Ken Tyner, Ken Kashima, David Fugate and Albert Kim. And, it was obvious that spirit was there when the season got off to a great start with a scrimmage record of 4-1.

The strength of the 1985-86 team showed in the fact that the team lead competition in singles play. This strength could be seen through the fact that the team played match play instead of round robin. In other words, each individual played the same person for the entire match instead of a different person at each set. This way each guy could get to know his opponent's weakness' and defeat him. Lead double's players, Albert Kim and Brian Bugsch successfully defeated opposing teams from such schools as Serra and Mission Bay. They were strong in holding together the team for another successful season in doubles tournaments. As the season came to an end the team had successfully fulfilled their expectations. Mira Mesa took advantage of this system and put their talent to work

The school year Eighty five-eighty six was a year to remember. It was a year of change. No longer was Prince the hottest item in music. Springsteen, Madonna, and Whitney Houston were all battling for the top. Dire Straits said they got their "Money for Nothing", but MTV rocked stronger than ever. Miami Vice changed the music and fashion scene and Amy Grant proved that there was plenty of room for God in rock music. America looked to Michael J. Fox, Harrison Ford, and Sylvester Stallone for their heroes in Back to the Future, Witness, and Rambo. But the real heroes were the American people, who went out and bought millions of copies of USA for AFRICA's "We Are the World" for Ethiopia while "Sun City" focused our attention on South Africa. New Coke sprang up and Roger Hedgecock came bumbling down. We looked back in eighty five to the loss of Rock Hudson and forward to the arrival of Halley's Comet. Bernard Goetz made himself a name by becoming "the subway vigilante", and Normal Heights fell prey to a horrible blaze. We mourned the tragic death of thousands in the Mexico City earthquake and had our spirits uplifted with a promise of peace at the U.S./U.S.S.R. summit meeting. On the home front, new bungalows were put up, old fads were torn down. From incoming freshmen to outgoing seniors, the year was a year to remember. Nineteen eighty five was a year for change, and the Hot Spot changed along with the spirit, potential and location of the school.

TO THE REAL BOYS (Joel, Mike, Marc, Slim, Erick) GET OUT OF THE WATER!

Dear Friends; Anna, and all my favorite teachers: Thank-you so much for making my four years at MMHS sooo memorable.

Dearest Joel: I will always remember our special 2a.m. talks and the arguments that showed how much you cared. You will always be special to me. I Love You!!!

My fav. sis: I have learned so much from you! Ha!Ha! You're truly a wonderful sister and I love you lots. Thanks for all the "small" loans and the Thompson Twins concert. I'm sure Jan. 20, 1986 will be in our hearts forever!!!

Kandi Kay: Thanks for all the special favors. 12 years is a long time to be friends. Every moment of our friendship was full of so much. Thanks for the clean room! Give Dad, Mom, and Danille a hug! Hi Tag! Lots o' Love, Lizzie Shannon: Being best friends with someone for five years is something I'll never forget. You're a special friend Shan, maybe in the years to come we'll be great friends again. Thanx for all the favors and advice. P.S. Remember Babe-dog? Ha!Ha!

Suz: So much to write, so little room. I'll never forget our all night drive. Seen any big blue trucks lately? Been to Bootes lately? Ha!Ha! May the magic sound be around forever! I'll always be here for you. Don't ever forget me! Give Bill a hug for me! Snork!

Mike C.: The aspiring photographer. You're simply amazing! Thanx for the great times. You've made this year too fun. NO BLACKMAIL! Ha!Ha! This covergirl wants revenge!

Marc: Too dear to my heart. I will never forget you! I'll never forget Thompson Twins. You made it unforgettable. Thanks for putting up with me. November 2nd was too special. Ask later! Next time, 4 sure! Lots and lots of love.

Hamilton: We WILL meet again! Will it be worth the wait? Let's hope so! The framed picture of us will be there always to look at. Ha!Ha! See ya soon!

Danette: Where's K.B.? Smak! Our 4th period drool scenes will stay with me forever. Where's Richums! Drool ville! Gotta carrot? Thanx for all the great laughs! You're too wonderful! You know! We'll get Marni, Sarah, and the rest. Ha!Ha! Brent you're a fool! Jump on K.B.!!! Shddd!

Billy: You're just so b.a.d. Thanks for being so wonderful. I care about you lots. I know you'll be rich and successful. The talks we had were great. Thanks for caring.

Rich: You cutie pie! You're toooo cool! To me you will always be king! You know what I mean. Need another haircut? What will I do when we graduate? No more Lombardi. Ugg! Shddd! Come here! Ha!Ha! Please don't forget me. Gotta dog dish? I think poodle head is around. What's the latest gossip? Love ya lots Richie Rich!

Jenny: This covergirl thinks you're great! Should we walk for two hours or take a truck? Gotta magnet? Lunch time was too funny. Keep up the great work (PARTY). Where's the harem? You must keep in touch!

Nancy: You're the greatest. Our jokes were too funny. Thanks for being a big sis. Sniff! Sniff! The T-shirt will always remind me of you. Should I show it around? Ha!Ha! We'll party together forever! Keep up the scoping! Vinnie will come chasing. Raymond, you better come back. It might be too late!

Mrs. Lewis & Mrs. Hurley: You two take the icing on the cake. Mrs. L., thanks for all the fun. Our secrets could make lots of money. Mrs. H., you made this class too fun. Give Mr. Ed a big hug. The Hamilton warmer will make us millions. Thanks for teaching me the real B.J. Mrs. L. May carrots prosper forever. I love you both very much.

Anjie: When I marry Tom Bailey, I'll fly you to London! Meow darling. Thanks for the great times. May slow trains ride forever.

Chris B.: Thanks for being my official taxi. I owe ya lots. The concerts were great. Thanks for the camera loans. The time you taught me how to drive the Subaru was so much fun. Hope everything goes your way after high school.

Bill: Glad we had Obie's together. It was definitely different. Good Luck in L.A. I'll find ya an O.M.D. shirt soon. Take care.

Ami: We will have to keep in touch. We could hang out at Village Liquor. Ha!Ha! Thanks for hearing me talk about you-know-who. Go get Mr. Wonderful!

Jerry: We have so much to talk about. You're very dear to my heart. Our wonderful summer will stay with me always. I know you won't ever forget me. Lets watch Purple Rain again soon. Jerbear, I love you!

Liz W.: What a beautiful name. The Cure was unforgettable (kinda scary too! Ha!Ha!). Maybe someday I'll get daring enough to go blue too!

Leanne: Do I owe ya five dollars? Thanks for listening to me talk about Mr. M. You fasion slave!

Bobby: Thanks for the fun afternoons. Stay B.A.D.

Mr. Hall: My favorite teacher.

Joey & Kevin: My favorite mexican and he-man.

Mrs. Lee: I'll come visit.

Erick: Let's go to Depeche Mode.

Chris K.: Good luck in all you do.

Mrs. Lombardi: Stay off the broom! Ha!Ha!

Larry: Stay buff!

Lisa (S.S.): I'm too jealous!

Kristin: Thanks for the nickname!

To the "little boys" Shawn, John, Peter, and Jerry: Work hard to keep up the reputations!

Love To All,
Elizabeth (Lines) Romero

Crazy!

Marauders got crazy for the camera when yearbook photographers set up their cameras at lunch to take some last chance photos. Those that had been camera shy up until March were given a final "shot" at yearbook fame. Thanks to everyone for participating. What you see here is the best of the rest- Enjoy!

Spirit

1. Saucha Sudweeks, Natalie Woodward, and Tracy Cook demonstrate typical high-spirited antics to break an otherwise boring day.

2. Joel Carambas and Bryan Doane prove their manhood by dueling it out during the Elizabethan Banquet.

3. Chris Gillham, Karri McCulloch, David Wong, Sharon Ferrer, and Grace Monton show their spirit by attending one of Mira Mesa's basketball games.

Through the tough times and the fun times, the "Hot Spot" stayed number one. Spirited students at Mira Mesa High kept the pride high, working together to maintain their ultimate status. No other school could even come close in competitions ranging from fan support to skill on the courts. From every and any angle, MMHS was solidly positioned at the top of the triangle.

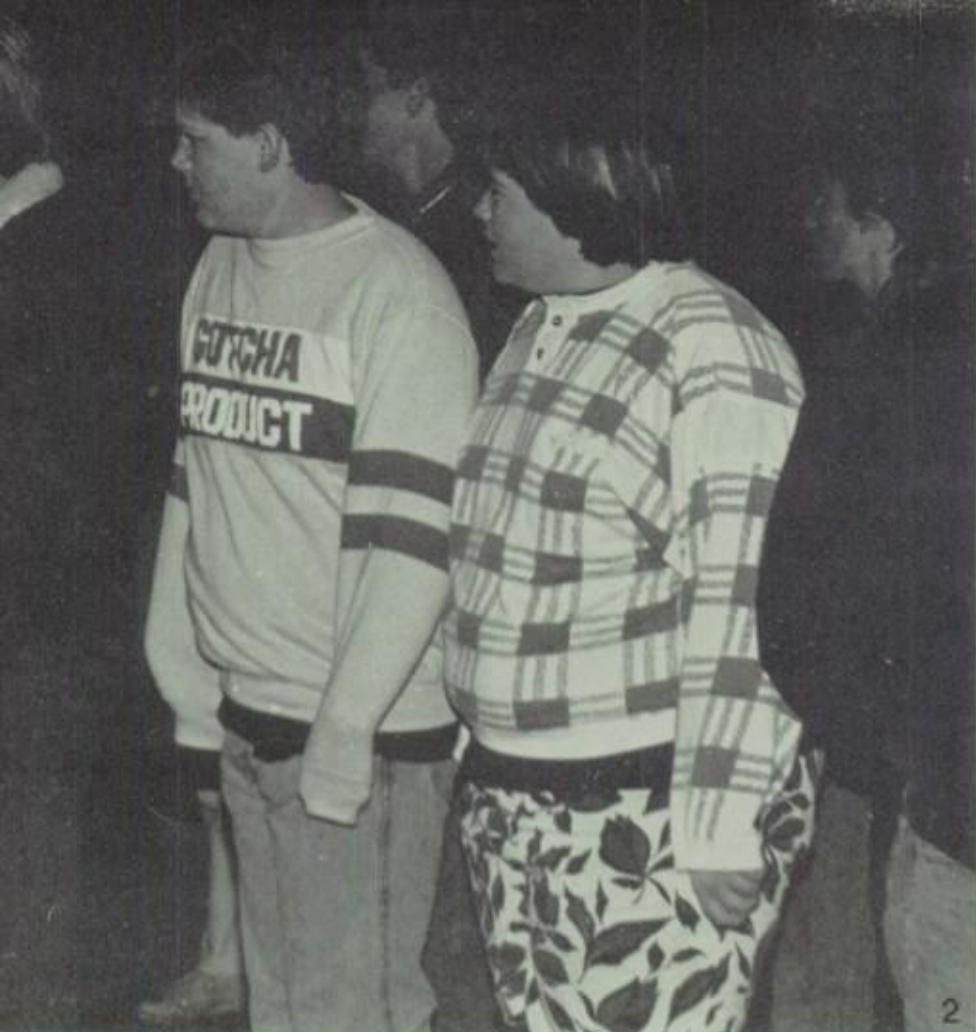

Having a blast was an easy task for Marauders. Whether totally decked out for the ASB Ball or making new friends at the first dance in the fall, the masses were there, looking for fun and finding it in their own locale. No other place had more to offer.

Time and dedication to many areas were made by students helping to keep the fire burning higher. Organized groups with specialized skills took a step ahead as they worked to improve school life, as well as themselves. Their devotion resulted in outstanding events, activities, publications and programs.

The times shared by all will never be forgotten, because the energy of the "Hot Spot" will stay with us forever. Whether it's back to class next year or reminiscing at reunions in later years, the sharing spirit of Mira Mesa will never die. No one said it would be easy, and they were right—it was fun!

1. Sitting at the dock on the bay: Ken Nelson, Jen McElliott, Michelle LeMay, and Danny Mandagie prove that life is more than just a pile of endless books, term papers, and reports.

2. Chad Roar and A.C. Santos are only two of many spectators who crowd the K-Mart parking lot for the regular Sunday night drag races.

3. Alexis Mangahis and Dean Wrench exchange hungry looks as Terry Sanabia pick up his Fudrucker's food and Todd Stevens and Craig Burkson anxiously await their orders.

HOT SPOT HAS BEEN SOLD! 150 rooms; 25 bath; fantastic location; 3600 students weren't wrong! They knew "Where It Was At"!

The 1985-86 school year proved the luring effect of Mira Mesa. Hallways, parking lots, and the lockers were more crowded than ever before. Adding more to the local crowds, students from other districts took the journey here to participate in ROP courses such as the hot new ROP landscaping greenhouse.

But, school wasn't the only place affected by the dazzling allure of this prime area. From a real estate point of view, this tip of the "golden triangle" began to reap the gold benefits from new business. Built within a quarter mile of the school, Fudrucker's, Black Angus, The Seafood Broiler, and the Sizzler fired up Mira Mesa's taste for a variety of cuisines. And, with these new attractions came more crowds.

There were many ways to burn up the weekend for these more populous crowds. One cool place to be on Sunday evenings was the K-Mart parking lot. Here you could find a fiery array of the latest in tripped out hot new cars and trucks. People came from as far away as LA and Orange County to see or be seen among the hottest of the cool. Even beyond this tip of golden persuasions, were opportunities within the paradise of Southern California. A short drive one way could take you snow skiing, while a short drive the other way could take you water skiing. The snow, the beach, Tijuana, car shows, great food, and new people to meet—what more could you ask for? There were no doubts that Mira Mesa people had made a sizzling sale on the location that went fast with the HOT SPOT!

Heh - heh? Renee?

Wad up? It was an OK year.
Well, heh don't know what to say.
Congrats on graduation. You did it.
it? Me? Not yet. Bell rang?

Love Ufa,
Robyn

1. Jeff Dickey and Bill Kenney set film coverage of the Hot Spot in anticipation of their careers in communications.

2. The Junior Class Council is smothered by students curious to find out who their computer date is.

3. Vaughn Avakian, Rachel Covell, and Jenny Rae spend their free time cramming for finals in the library.

Potential—we had it and we had a lot of it! Just by looking at all the records Mira Mesa High accumulated, we could see that The Hot Spot had what it took to rocket Marauders to success. We had outstanding athletes in everything from football to volleyball, scoring wins not only for Mira Mesa, but giving outstanding performances for themselves, as well. We had high-powered thinkers who tackled Advanced Placement Courses, SAT's, and ACH's. We had foreign exchange students, too, whose presence enriched us all. Clubs were in abundance, and allowed us to chase our dreams. Talent, too, thrived at the Hot Spot, with future heartthrobs, rock stars, and novelists already emerging.

Potential was not limited to campus only...it was found all over Mira Mesa and Scripps Ranch! Everywhere they looked, students found they could get a job, get help for whatever they needed, and most importantly...get ahead! Our community was an ideal place in which to live, and students and faculty alike found whatever they needed to go forward—full thrust! The Hot Spot had everything...talent, opportunity, and motivation.
